NOTICE

We are not "butter" importers and so perhaps we should not take up the cudgels on behalf of those who are being taken to task for announcing immediate increases in prices when the exchange drops. But since there is always a lot of loose thinking going on about the question of stocks brought in at the old rates of exchange, we think it only fair to all importers to answer the commercially immature arguments that we sometimes hear. Let us try and explain it in simple words. You have in stock 5,000 cases of butter, enough for three or four months under normal circumstances, you sell at old prices until this stock is exhausted, which you will find is two days, allowing one day for the market to recover its breath and begin the scramble for goods, and one day for writing out delivery orders for your entire stock. You then telegraph to Australia or wherever it is and order another 5,000 cases for which you settle at 6½d. The exchange then hardens to 7½d. (maybe not very likely, we'll concede, but not impossible.) You, Mr. Benevolent Philanthropist, try to sell your 5,000 cases at a price based on 6½d. exchange whereupon we leap with joy and immediately import on a basis of 7½d. exchange (which means a lower price in dollars), even though possibly never having been in the butter business before but quite willing to establish ourselves before you have wakened up.

One further argument—we think that it is more than possible that the butter and margarine firms have done quite a bit to make the rise in prices in the shops a gradual one. Which brings us to our real purpose. There is no question that from now on household budgets will be in need of drastic revision. Well, why not go in for alternatives? If you cannot afford a taxi, the CGOC are putting out nice new buses. If you cannot afford butter, there is a nice new margarine by the name of Vitayna. It is made purely from selected vegetable oils. Its vitamin content is guaranteed to be equal to that of the best summer butter and the guarantee is on the carton, under continual check by the health authorities. It is pleasant in flavour; you must not confuse it with the margarine of the Great War years made when the science of margarine manufacture was still more or less in its infancy. You may think that you will be able to taste the difference between it and butter—and maybe you really will at first—but if you use it on your table for three or four days whenever you would otherwise eat butter, you will soon forget that there ever was any difference. It sells at about one third of the price of butter. Begin a week's trial of it to-day!

U.S. War Veterans: Service They Can Render

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Being a Legionnaire, a member of Orlando Memorial Post No. 19 Orlando Fla., "The American Legion," a former member of General Frederick Townsend Ward Post No. 1 China "The American Legion," and a member of "U. S. S. Panay Memorial Association, American World War Veterans," Shanghai, I am interested in war veterans' activities, and the service our Association can render.

With regard to the selection by the Commander of the U. S. S. Panay Memorial Association of a slogan for the operation of our Association.

"United Effort is Creative and Productive." This puts me in mind of a story I heard once about that optimistic and wise old Roman, Marcus Aurelius. "That he had some of the characteristics of a "stand patter," because he saw clearly that only the good live and endure."

Man's worst enemy is man, and yet what does man gain if he conquer the world, the whole world and lose his soul?

I wonder whether we are attacking the problems of life from the right angle. Do we let personal fears, unreasonableness and unjustified hatreds spoil our lives?

Time after time in this life of ours we find that one we had rated as a bitter enemy is perhaps one of our best friends.

Many of us become discouraged because of conditions about us. We discover that idols have feet of clay. Rascals are found in high places. But there is a silver lining. "No Organization ever endures, that failed to deal squarely with its Comrades."

No one is above the laws of God, as some would have you believe, even though the laws of man be unable to touch them. We all must make the final accounting and make it naked and alone before the great white throne.

Then why seek anything by unfair means? You will have to pay the price eventually and you can't take your gains with you.

"Life is not what you can get, but it is what you can do for others."

A boy scout oath is "To do a Good Turn Daily."

It is what we all should try to do, and if all Veterans remember it, and try it, they will find that they are a lot happier.

Any visiting Legionnaire in Shanghai, also any American World War Veteran is invited to attend our monthly meetings, which are held at No. 8 The Bund, the third Friday of each month.

One of the pu[illegible]s of our As[illegible]erything possible [illegible]mrades in need, and [illegible] of deceased American [illegible] veterans, to see that they receive the benefits they are entitled to, under law, and be given every aid possible.

The maximum attainable in Service is never fixed but is dependent upon the support of an increasing co-operation of every American World War Veteran in Shanghai.

This Association asks for the support of each and every one, regardless of his social or financial condition, each comrade is rated by his devotion and service.

We may not endow a hospital, but we can donate the charitable atom off the widow's mite, resulting in a spiritual renaissance.

We may not erect a library, but we can help spread the enlightenment of the Golden Rule.

We may not enshrine a world's master-piece, but we can help to touch the soul of proverty so that the heart of a forgotten mother may raise a nation's idol.

We may get discouraged by the small amount of service we can render individually but when we read the activities of personal service we realize that the smallest service is an achievement leading to greater service. Individual service makes committee service possible, and committee service is the Association's workshop. The Association's achievements, like the index in a book, point out what is commendable in them.

Some veterans have mistaken social activities for service, and the pleasure of their members as achievements.

We are not unmindful of the value of fellowship, but the social side of our Association is as food to man so that they may labour. The success of our organization is complete when all members find opportunity for personal service.

The law of strength is in action, and the law of improvement is in energy service, sincere comradeship, more members—with above-mentioned qualifications—will make a bigger and better organization in Shanghai.

This is a fraternity of ordinary men, "not out for personal glorification; but with ideals of service."

"We honour the dead by helping the living."

To Radio Fans: Plea for Consideration

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Now that we are in the hot weather and living with open windows, the time is opportune to air a grievance which is constant through the year, but more urgent during the hot weather. I refer to the inconsiderate use of radios. I cannot imagine why some people like to tune their radio to such a loud pitch that it sounds as though they were being addressed in a public meeting and they the sole audience.

It is possible to tune a radio down until all the resonance is removed from the tone, and the voice of the speaker is no more audible than that of other people in the room, yet every word is clear to anyone of ordinary good hearing. It is extremely trying to decide to forego the news broadcast and just rest, and then be forced to listen to a vigorous voice booming out of one or more of one's neighbours' houses. Music is a little more difficult, but it is quite possible to tune it down to a point where it entertains only the people interested. Few things are more personal and individual than a taste in music and I object to having my programmes chosen for me.

To maintain a menace to one's neighbours' peace and quiet, especially in these days of so many unavoidable noises, is an offence that no decently considerate person would consciously commit. It is, of course, usually due to a lack of realization that the radio will be entirely audible when less blaring; so I suggest—try tuning it down.

Rising Prices: E. K. M's Plan Wanted

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—The letter of E.K.M. in your issue of today's date will, I am sure, strike a ready response in the minds of many foreigners in Shanghai whose income is received for the most part in Chinese dollars and who are now expected to provide extravagant extra profits for almost all the local suppliers of foodstuffs and other necessities of life.

The well-known principle of imposing "all that the traffic will bear" on the individual consumer has now reached the point when something surely must be done to strike back against those who wish to assess an extra 25 per cent. and much more over their legitimate profits.

If E.K.M. will come forward with his plan, I for one am ready to back it to the fullest extent that is possible for one individual, and will undertake to do what is necessary to interest others in the scheme.

ROBERT L. STEWART.

Small Money Shortage: A Remedy Suggested

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—To cope with the temporary shortage of dollar cents and to elude inconvenience especially from the Shanghai travelling public, I beg to suggest that the Tram and Omnibus Companies put up coupon books for sale with denominations equivalent to their fares, and exchange these for tickets on the vehicles.

These coupons should be crossed with "Not exchangeable for cash," to safeguard their retirement when the copper coin supply is re-established.

If advertisements are printed on the back of these coupons, they will pay the cost of printing and overhead expenses.

This solution might be used by the Department Stores as well, which are at present employing postage stamps in place of small monies.

ACT QUICKLY.

Pope Asked to Convene Conference of Powers

Admiral Horthy Says Time For Negotiations

Budapest, June 14.

A proposal that His Holiness Pope Pius XII should take the initiative in convening a conference of the great Powers for the settlement of Europe's problems was put forward today by the Regent, Admiral Horthy, in a speech at the opening of the new Parliament.

The time for negotiations had perhaps arrived, Admiral Horthy said, but it was difficult to take the initial step. If the highest and the most unselfish quarter, His Holiness the Pope, would make a proposal for calling together the great Powers to consider concrete problems, that would be the best way out.—Reuter.

Survivor of Indian Mutiny Dies

London, June 14.

Colonel George Chrystie, one of the two survivors of the Indian Mutiny of 1857-58, died today at his home in Farnham, Surrey, at the age of 98. Mr. C. J. Palmer, who lives at British Columbia, is now the only survivor of the Indian Mutiny.—Reuter.

"Finding an Ancestor"

A hunt through the past by a poor young man who hopes to establish his relationship with a rich dead one is the theme of "Finding an Ancestor," a feature programme from Daventry today.

In his search for an inheritance, the hero, accompanied by his sweetheart, will inspect files and papers in some of the famous London buildings where records of the past are preserved. They will go to Bloomsbury, to the British Museum; to Chancery Lane, to seek help from the documents in the Public Record Office; to Somerset House, in the Strand, where two million names a year are registered. It will be a thorough-going treasure hunt, with the result in doubt until the end.

Peter Watts, who has written the script of "Finding an Ancestor," is a young English author and producer. Formerly at Plymouth, he is now producing plays for the Perth Repertory Company.

The Black Country

The black country, the great industrial area in the Midlands, has been given a new and equally appropriate name. In their programme about the district, Robin Whitworth and Bernard Coaling refer to it as "The Anvil of England"—an apt title for the centre of the country's iron and metal industries.

The programme will show how the changes in civilization and in industry have affected that part of Staffordshire of which Dudley Castle is the heart. Listeners will hear how the Castle itself, which has dominated the landscape for many centuries, was first a great stronghold, then a mighty ruin, and now has a Zoo in its grounds.

Reference will be made to the changes wrought by the introduction by "Dud" Dudley in 1639 of the use of pit coals and coke for iron smelting. Nearer modern times bad pre-War housing conditions and the disorganization caused by the slump will be reflected. So, too, will the greater concern for public health which between 1922 and 1938 turned Dudley itself from a town that was censured by the Ministry of Health into one held up by the same Ministry as a model borough.

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS" OF JUNE 16, 1869

A movement is on foot to establish a yachting club in Shanghai. As the proposal embraces all kinds of boats used by our sporting friends when going up country, we should think there would be no lack of members. Independently of the friendly rivalry that such a movement would induce, it is almost the only kind of out-door amusement we can indulge in, during the hot months. We are informed that sixteen gentlemen have already signed the list of members; but with a fleet of about 150 pleasure boats, we should think a much larger number would be induced to join, if the project were brought prominently to notice. A list for signatures lies, we believe, at Messrs. Lane Crawford & Co.

WOMAN'S PAGE

A London Letter

By Olive Dun

London, May 20.

When the Queen to America went,
Her place was taken by the Duchess of Kent.
"I must wear my very best hat," said she,
"For I'm Her Majesty's dep-u-tee."

I beg your pardon. It's the sort of thing that may happen to anyone in springtime. And after all it does give you the news. For the Duchess has been deputizing for the Queen, at the Alexandra Rose Day meeting at the Guildhall and at the Naval and Military Tournament; and everyone remarked what particularly smart hats she was wearing. She got out of the Chelsea Flower Show, however, having had some providential trouble with a tooth, of which she took full advantage.

It was the Duchess of Gloucester's turn (she, too, wearing a new and attractive hat) to attend Queen Mary in an exhaustive tour of three acres of tents, Himalayas of rock gardens and seas of mud. It had been raining heavily for a couple of days and the grounds were a swamp. Gallant gardeners, plagiarizing on Sir Walter Raleigh, rushed forward to put down planks and sacking for the Royal shoes, which never the less got exceedingly muddy.

On the whole I think that the Duchess of Kent had decidedly the best of it. But flower shows always seem to me the worst possible way of seeing flowers, even without the added discomfort of wet feet. Chelsea Flower Show is, of course, the most wonderful display of its kind in the world. And there's the rub. It is for millionaires, not for the lowly gardener, who may well be discouraged by the miracles brought forth at Chelsea. I knew a man once, devoted to the theatre, who saw every play that came to the provincial town in which he lived, but would never visit a London theatre. "I can go to my own theatre every week," he explained, "but I could only afford London occasionally. It would make me discontented with what I can get at home, so I don't go." That philosophy seems to me to apply very well to the Chelsea Flower Show.

The Burdens of Bishops

Would you like to be suddenly confronted with having to live in a house of 53 rooms? Such is the fate of Mrs. Fisher, wife of the Bishop-designate of London; and it is said her main feeling is one of satisfaction that Fulham Palace has only 53 rooms and not 100 as is popularly supposed. She is better off in one way than Dr. Winnington Ingram (a bachelor) as she has six children. But they don't really go far in 53 rooms.

Even as early as in 1715 Fulham Palace was too large for the revenues of the Bishopric of London. At that time it still had 100 rooms, large parts of which were half ruinous, and after an examination by Sir Christopher Wren and Sir John Vanbrugh half of it was pulled down. But even thus the rates on it amount to £1,500 a year and it needs at least 10 servants to keep it in order. Dr. Winnington Ingram tried to let it, but found no takers. So he lived in two rooms and only used some of the others for entertaining. The oldest parts of the palace which is built round two quadrangles dates from the reign of Henry VII. There was formerly a moat round it. But Dr. Winnington Ingram had it filled up as it cost him £50 a year to clean it.

Fulham's chief glory is its gardens. In James II's reign, the then Bishop of London, Compton, was kept virtually a prisoner in his palace for two years and whiled away the time by stocking the garden with every imaginable rare tree and shrub. But once again to keep such glories in order needs money; there are few more deplorable sights than a garden too big for its owner to maintain.

But the whole question of episcopal residences needs drastically overhauling. Hartlebury Castle is the worst incubus. Only a very rich man can afford to accept the Worcester Bishopric. Durham is another terrible burden. The late Lord William Cecil never lived in the palace at Exeter. Farnham Castle has been cleverly divided by the genius of a local lady who got together a fund which enables the Bishop of Guildford to live in a part of it, while the rest is used for diocesan offices. The passages in Farnham measure over a mile. These huge castles, like many elephantine country rectories, create a bad impression of ecclesiastics living remote from their flocks in great splendour, while really they are as poor as church mice.

The Call of the Wild

Another conception of heavenly mansions, though hardly suitable for the clergy unless they are to be itinerant friars, is supplied this week by a Mrs. Helen Schwerdt and a Miss Metcalfe who have thrown up their jobs, respectively as factory supervisor and chauffeuse, to follow the life of a Romany. They have bought a real gipsy van, which is at least 50 years old, and a cart mare. Neither of them knew anything about horses before they started, but they say it is easy to learn and that nothing is so responsive as a horse when you live with and care for him always. They have been on the road since Easter and vow they will never leave it; they have no cares, no telephones and read no newspapers. Their only concession to modernity is a gas container which they use for cooking.

There is a unique fascination in the gipsy life. The late W. J. Locke, in one of his most charming stories, "The Golden Journey of Mr. Paradyne," showed us a great K. C. throwing up his career to wander over France in a caravan. Borrow of course has fired countless imaginations. There is still a great deal of real country for the vagrant in England. Only this week I learnt to my surprise that one may walk the whole way from Esher to Lancing without going along (though one would cross) a road. But would the gipsy's van be quite so attractive when autumn fogs and frosts begin? The charm of vagrancy depends a good deal on being able to give it up whenever one pleases.

All for Love—

The elopement of Sam Mercer and Lucy Joad, both undergraduates at Oxford, he an American, she daughter of Professor C. E. M. Joad, is the story of the week. They came to London last Tuesday, where Lucy's parents argued with her, and Sam's relatives argued with him, urging him to consider that his elopement might have a grave effect on his mother's health. The lovers merely replied by collecting all their belongings and departing for France where they hope to get married. But as they are only 19 and 20 respectively France certainly will not do that for them, nor will England, nor will the American Embassy.

They appeared a little scared by the battery of cameras awaiting their train at Paris and have hidden themselves in some out of the way hotel. Mrs. Mercer's health is so far unaffected that she has been able to cut off all supplies, as Professor Joad has done. Sam Mercer is said to have £60 and has made a bit more by an article in one of the London papers, in which he explains that he and Lucy had come to the conclusion that they were wasting their lives at Oxford, that they are perfectly confident of being able to earn their living and so forth.

Is this "the real thing?" Or another case of taking to the gipsy's caravan, the latter being represented by Sam's £60? But perhaps the best of the story is that Professor Joad has all his life, been preaching the overthrow of every conventional idol, self-expressionism, the danger of repressing complexes. And Lucy pays him back in his own coin. Truly wisdom is justified of her children.

Meanwhile Lucy is a very pretty girl, and Sam is the son of a wealthy American widow. What are the odds that the parents will relent when the gipsy caravan sticks in the mud of a wintry world?

Back to Femininity

It is rather charming to hear from Paris that lace is coming into use again, and that various towns and villages which were badly hit by its going out of fashion are coming back to prosperity. Honiton, too, will be glad. I was there one day last autumn and it seemed a depressed little town, though this may have been partly due to the heavy rain of that particular day. I bought some lace handkerchiefs, and it was interesting to see with what loving care the shopwoman spread them out on large sheets of dark blue paper, handling them much as a jeweller might a string of pearls. Except lace handkerchiefs, I do not suppose Honiton has been selling much lace since the war.

The secret is of course that after the war dress took on a sharp outline, while lace essentially calls for, as it makes, softer suggestions. Parisian dressmakers are now using all kinds of laces, from an ensemble of natural coloured string lace, to cascades of tulle frills (tulle belongs to the lace family, be it remembered) on evening coats. So far are we going back that even lace mittens are being worn. With which, of course, must be carried a fan.

These reversions to the clothes of a more tranquil age are important. A lady in our village is going daily to London for some sort of war training arrayed in a fatigue cap trimmed with gold braid and a military-looking double breasted blue coat. Ordinarily she is the kindest of mortals—more like a large tabby cat curled up on the hearthrug than anything I know. But in her uniform, we salute nervously and fall back. If you could only get the Dictators to take off their jack-boots, I am sure we should be a long way towards solving the problems of Europe. So if women are returning to lace, perhaps it is part of an unconscious movement to lead the world back to softer lines of thought.

* * *

It is very seldom that a really valuable piece of jewellery is picked up second-hand. But such has been the luck this week of a Hatton Garden firm, which bought in the City a job lot of old jewellery. Among it was found a pink beryl of a size and perfection never before seen. The colour alone gives it distinction, as beryls are usually green. This beryl measures about 1¼ inches x ¾ inches and weighs nearly 40 carats. Its setting was at least 100 years old, and it was so begrimed that its beauty was invisible till it had been cleaned, when it was found to be entirely flawless. What its value may be no one could say. It depends largely on what a collector would give. But Hatton Garden agrees that there is not another stone like it in the world so far as is known.

World's Fair Charity Parade

$7,500,000 worth of jewellery are being exhibited at the World's Fair and a preview was held for the benefit of a New York hospital. Mrs. Alan Lehman acted as mannequin for Cartier's two-colour topaz bracelet, clips and ring, worn with a pearl necklace.

Mermaids A La Mode

This year's crop of beach sirens will be more striking than they have been for many a day, for the emphasis is on feminine charm in the new bathing suits and play outfits. The clever use of powder blue and white striped jersey makes this suit so unusual.

Summer Tonic

The Sun Has No Mercy . . .

. . . on a pale face. Pitilessly it lights up the flaws of a drab complexion caused by dingy sunless days. To meet the sun you want tired skin toned up and cheeks aglow.

Rouge is one way—but not the most satisfactory, for at every cost you must avoid that Dutch doll look, so out of keeping with the unself-conscious summer mood.

Make-up will camouflage, but not entirely conceal, paleness and fatigue; and the surest way of dealing with the pale-face problem is to concentrate on getting some natural colour.

And that's not by any means impossible. Our rougeless grandmothers worked on the right principles when they attacked "pasty faces" with a bit of discreet face-slapping behind the scenes—it stimulated the circulation.

Refreshener

Plenty of fresh air, exercise, good food and sleep will work wonders in a general way, but if you feel in need of a quick general freshener before an important date try this.

Remove all make-up with a good cleansing cream and lie down in the dark for a quarter of an hour, your face covered with a wet cotton-wool compress. Twenty per cent rose water to witch-hazel is good or use your favourite face tonic. Relax the whole body, and to make sure you're not worrying about the time, set an alarm clock.

Then get up and do these exercises.

For Circulation

Kneel on the floor and breathe out. Bend forward until the head touches the floor, back to an upright position again and breathe in. Repeat this half a dozen times and you'll find it works wonders with the facial bloodstream.

Next have a cool bath and give yourself a brisk body-friction with a rough bath-glove and a bath-lotion containing alcohol. Splash cold water on the face, or better still, rub ice over it, and dry with a rough towel.

Now step into a dressing-gown and slippers and start a waking-up face treatment to stimulate the nerve-centres and bring colour to the face.

Give 20 slaps with the back of the hands at the spot where neck and shoulders join.

You'll find little tender hollows at the base of each ear; place the middle fingers in them, press slightly and vibrate.

Do the same thing with the thumbs just above the nose-bridge where the eyebrows begin, because this has a tonic effect on the whole face.

Run the fingers all over the face with light pinching movements—but without pulling or skin-stretching—and do some deep breathing at the same time. Blow out the cheeks and do five-finger piano exercises on them, very gently.

Eye Massage

If your eyes still look tired give them an eye-bath—there are plenty of good eye lotions to choose from—then give them a little massage too. Place the finger-tips on closed lids and vibrate with gentle pressure. Opticians say this is excellent for eye health and should be done at least once a day.

You should now feel generally toned up and ready to face a long evening with a glow that will prevent even heavy make-up looking like a mask.

Right Cosmetics

Try a coloured foundation cream (with pink tones if you're inclined to sallowness) rather than a very dark powder. Work cream rouge well into the skin, with a little going right up to the eyes, and rely on the same toned dry rouge for retouching if you need it.

You'll find a silver-glinted eye-shadow will look good in artificial light as it doesn't give any effect of heavy-lidded weariness.

Hearth Tile Problem

How To Make Them Agree With Your Room

Hearth tiles that do not blend well with the colour scheme of a room may be given a coating of cellulose paint to alter them to a more suitable shade.

Before the painting is begun the tiles must be washed perfectly clean and allowed to dry thoroughly. The paint should be applied with a new brush, or with one that has only been used for cellulose paint. Immediately after use the brush should be washed in hot soapy water and wiped dry. It must not be cleaned with turpentine.

If a plain surface for the tiles is desired, one coat may be sufficient, but a mottled finish, for which two coats are needed, is well worth the extra trouble. To obtain a mottled surface a second coat of paint, of a different shade from the first, must be applied after the first one has dried. Then, while the second coat is still moist, it must be lightly touched over with a piece of clean dry sponge. The irregular contact of the sponge with the wet paint soaks up small patches here and there, so that the colour of the under coat shows through, producing a mottled effect. Cellulose paint dries quickly, so it is advisable to apply the second coat in small sections and go over it with the sponge before it has time to harden.

Good mottled effects may be obtained by using pale shades of cream or grey as a foundation, and overlaying them with delicate tones of blue, green, or mauve.

Green peas are greatly improved by cooking in equal parts of milk and water instead of all water.

Y.W.C.A. Notes

A most enjoyable and successful concert, the programme of which was very kindly arranged by Mrs. Renner, was held on Friday, June 9, at the Y.W.C.A., 999 Bubbling Well Road. The talented artists who took part were well-known on the European continent.

Special mention must be made of Mrs. Irene Seidle-Margolinski, who has a delightful soprano voice, Mr. Max Warschauer, Mr. Wolfgang Fraenkel, and last but not least the pianist-conductor Mr. Henry Margolinski.

The tennis season has opened at 999 Bubbling Well Road, with a new hard court. Members are welcome to join.

At the Navy Y.M.C.A. every Monday from 5.30 p.m. there will be swimming for members and their lady friends.

A mincer is apt to slip on a polished kitchen table. Any handyman can adjust a wooden rest for the mincer at an end of the table. It can be hinged and thus drop out of the way when the mincer is not being used.

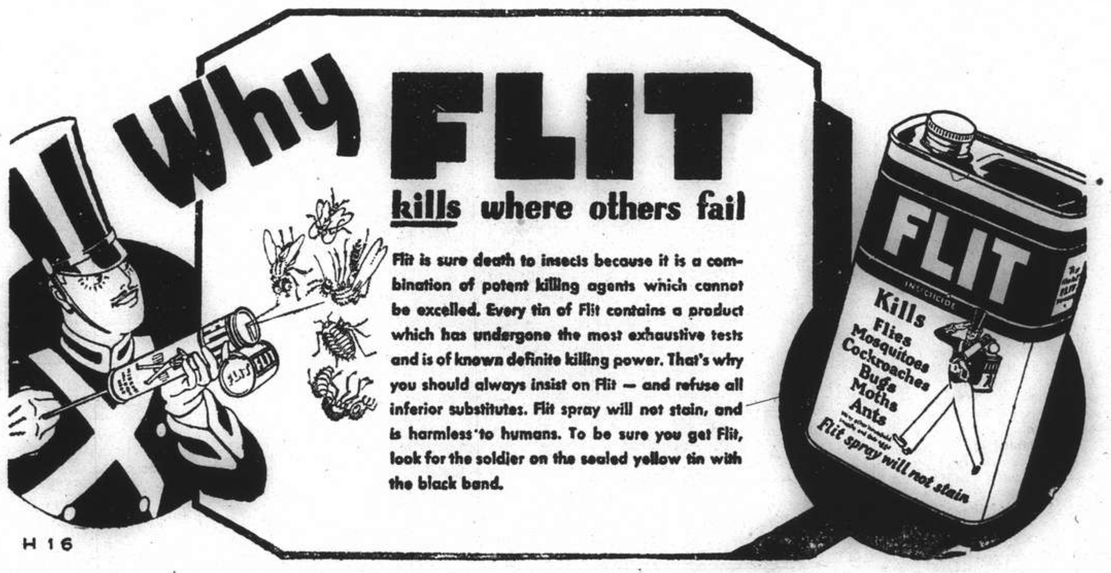
Why FLIT kills where others fail



Flit is sure death to insects because it is a combination of potent killing agents which cannot be excelled. Every tin of Flit contains a product which has undergone the most exhaustive tests and is of known definite killing power. That's why you should always insist on Flit — and refuse all inferior substitutes. Flit spray will not stain, and is harmless to humans. To be sure you get Flit, look for the soldier on the sealed yellow tin with the black band.

WE OUGHT TO SEE A DOCTOR WITH HER. I WONDER IF BETTY'LL AGREE?
AT THE DOCTOR'S
YES, LOTS OF CHILDREN GET 'NERVY' LIKE THAT, MRS. KEMP, AND IT'S DUE TO NIGHT STARVATION. YOU SEE, DAY AND NIGHT CHILDREN USE UP FAR MORE ENERGY FOR THEIR SIZE THAN ADULTS
DURING SLEEP THEY GO ON USING UP ENERGY IN HEARTBEATS AND BREATHING, LIKE YOU AND I... AND THEY ALSO GROW DURING SLEEP. IF ENERGY ISN'T REPLACED DURING SLEEP OF COURSE SALLY GETS 'NERVY,' FADDY AND PALE. SHE NEEDS HORLICKS FOR THAT
AND SO HORLICKS EVERY NIGHT
SIX WEEKS LATER
SALLY'S A DIFFERENT CHILD. SHE'S NEVER TIRED OR PALE NOW
AND, YOU KNOW, SHE ASKED FOR TWO EXTRA SANDWICHES FOR LUNCH - THIS HORLICKS WORKS WONDERS

Is your child highly strung, 'nervy'?

SO often when a child tires easily, looks pale, is 'nervy,' foodfaddy, or restless at night, the trouble is Night Starvation. Get Horlicks to-day. Plain or chocolate flavoured. Horlicks is best when made in the special Horlicks mixer, obtainable at all good stores.

Charges Against Joe Louis

Manager of Schmeling, Joe Jacobs, Alleges Negro Used Metal Bit in World Title Bout

Asbury Park, N.J., June 14.

JOE "We Were Robbed" Jacobs, manager of Tony Galento and former manager of Max Schmeling, today made sensational charges that Joe Louis, world champion, used a metal bit to blast Schmeling into unconsciousness in the first round last year.

But when the New York State Athletic Commission threatened to hold an investigation of Jacobs' charges, the cigar-smoking manager beat a hasty retreat and announced that he wanted to withdraw his allegations.

"Yussel" Jacobs, known as the shrewdest of all ballyhoo artists and whose statements continually make headlines, went too far today when he gathered newspapermen at Galento's training camp for his latest verbal blast.

Jacobs, handling Galento for the New Jersey bartender's scrap with Louis here on June 28, charged that Louis had a "Gimmick," a small metal dumbell grasped in his right glove the night he knocked Schmeling out last year.

Wants to Examine Hands

Because of this, he said he would ask the New York Boxing Commission for permission to examine the hands of Louis between each round of the Louis-Galento scrap.

The Boxing Commission went into action immediately after Jacobs had made his sensational charges.

General John Phelan, chairman of the Commission, first ordered the beer-drinking, cigar-smoking Galento to move his training camp to Summit, N.J., in order to leave the carnival atmosphere of Asbury Park.

Then Gen. Phelan, after considering Jacobs' charges, told the little Jewish manager:

Charges Withdrawn

"You are making charges you can't substantiate. Unless you withdraw them we will start an investigation and call you before the Commission."

Jacobs, apparently unwilling to face the fire of severe cross-examination of his charges, announced that he withdrew his charges.

Meanwhile, Jack Blackburn, trainer of Louis, took exception to Jacobs' charges.

Talking to newspapermen at Pompton Lakes, training camp of his boxer, the husky negro trainer, who was in Louis' corner the night the Brown Bomber flattened Schmeling, said that the "only thing Louis had in his gloves that night were his fists. That was all he needed."

Louis, who decided that he would fight Galento because the New Jersey boxer with a "beer-barrel" physique continually taunted him, is rapidly attaining perfect condition.

Although his managers were not willing for him to meet Galento, Louis insisted on a bout because that "fat little man called me a bum."

Lou Nova, who recently scored a technical knockout over Max Baer in the eleventh round, will meet the winner of the Galento-Louis bout sometime in September for the world title.

Over 90 per cent. of boxing experts pick Louis to finish off Galento in quick order.—United Press.

Shaforce Batsmen's Splendid Innings

Captain Cole, Hamlen and McBride Obtain Fifties in Inter-Service Match

At the Race Course yesterday afternoon, the Area Details retired the Royal Army Service Corps in a friendly cricket match for 129 and then knocked up 179 in reply, passing their opponents' total for the loss of only five wickets.

Batting first, the R.A.S.C. were quickly in trouble, the deliveries of Dixon proving a little too much for the earlier batsmen. Hamlen, however, prevented what at one time seemed an absolute break-down in the run-scoring department, by remaining at the crease for over an hour.

Going in when only one had been recorded, he stayed until the board read 113, his own contribution being a most useful 52. He gave two chances during his innings, but once set, always appeared on top of the bowling. His principal strokes were eleven boundaries. He and Curry made the best stand, adding no less than 44 to a dwindling score for the seventh partnership.

The remaining bats did very little between them, even such tested performers as Sadler, French and Cooper failing to stay long.

Dixon and Spencer bore the brunt of the attack, securing nine wickets between them for good averages.

Area Details began even more poorly than their opponents, some good trundling by Sadler and French achieving the desired results, and there seemed a possibility that the R.A.S.C. would gain the day.

McBride Tames Attack

With Cole and McBride in partnership, however, the Service bowling was completely tamed and some attractive cricket was witnessed, runs coming at a very fast rate. McBride quickly went for the bowling and scored 56 out of 77 put on for the fourth wicket in short time, his chief shots being seven fours and two sixes. He was eventually caught by Loach off Weir after a most enterprising knock.

Andrews was soon sent back but Goodman and Cole passed the 129 of their opponents before the former was retired by the stumping route. Cole later retired voluntarily after making a faultless 69, which included ten hits to the tapes, delightful strokes featuring his innings which lasted some ninety minutes.

The tail failed to wag as effectively as it should have done and the innings was brought to a conclusion with the board reading 179, Sadler having done the most damage with five wickets for 85 runs.

In the fourth quarter-final match, Mrs. T. Marks of Malone beat Mrs. Edmund Fletcher of Hermitage at the 21st hole.

Mrs. Bruce-Burrell and Miss C. Macgeagh, champions of Wales and Ireland respectively, were beaten in the third round.

Another national champion, Miss Jessie Anderson, who is holder of the Scottish championship, lost to Miss Clarrie Tiernan in the fourth round.—Reuter.

New York Giants Now In First Division

Zeke Bonura Wins Game With Two Homers

New York, June 15.

Zeke Bonura, a clumsy 210 pound baseball slugger from Louisiana, batted the New York Giants into the first division of the National League yesterday for the first time this season.

Bonura, a first baseman bought from the Washington Senators last winter, pounded out two home runs at Wrigley Field, Chicago, to give the Giants a 2-1 victory over the Cubs who dropped to fifth place in the standings.

Motor Cycle Race In Heavy Rain

London, June 14.

Riding a Benelli machine, the English rider E. A. Mellors, today won the motor cycle tourist trophy in a gruelling contest fought out on the Isle of Man in pouring rain and heavy mist.

Mellors covered the 425-kilometre course in three hours, 33 minutes, 26 seconds, thus averaging 119.94 kilometres an hour.

The German rider, Ewald Kluge, put up a wonderful fight on his auto union D.K.W. machine to gain second place. His time was only 3¾ minutes slower than that of the winner.

Tyrell Smith, an Irish rider, came in third.

Only half of the starters finished the race.—Trans-Ocean.

Bowls Schedule for Coming Week-end

Blues Have Another Easy Game Ahead; Yangtzepoo To Oppose Country Club

The Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club Blues, present leaders in the Shanghai Lawn Bowls League, appear to have another easy task ahead of them this week, for they are opposed to the Junior Golf Club. The latter, though they have earned reputation as a team full of surprises, have failed to do as well as expected up to the present, and the Blues, in spite of playing away, should be winners.

Lawn bowls league matches this week-end will be played on Saturday, when four first division and two second division games will be decided. With teams well matched in the majority of the games, close results may be anticipated.

Of especial interest will be the encounter between the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Reds and the Recs, to be held on the S.L.B.C. greens. The Reds have won two matches in succession, while the Recs, after losing their first game of the season, have recovered their last season's form. The advantage will be slightly in favour of the Reds, who are at home.

Another interesting game should be that at the Country Club, where the home team will meet Yangtzepoo Bowling Club. On paper, the two teams appear to be well matched and the result should be close.

The Police will be opposed to the Hongkew Golf Club. Following their impressive victory over Clube Lusitano last week, the lawmen should take the measure of the H.G.C.

In the second division, the Police will meet the Barbarians on their own greens, while the S.L.B.C. will entertain the Junior Golf Club.

On Sunday, the first round of the Pairs Championship must be completed. Attention is drawn to the ruling which states that all matches in the Championships must be played on or before the official dates. Defaulters will be scratched.

The following are teams selected for the week-end matches. Captains of Clubs are requested to kindly send in their lists by Thursday, in order to be published in these columns on Friday.

Backers Have Good Day at Ascot

Sir Abe Bailey's Luck in Royal Hunt Cup; Surprise Defeat of Winner of Oaks

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Ascot, June 14.

Despite chilly winds, heavy showers and threatening thunder clouds, backers generally had a fine day, when racing was continued here today.

The American, Mr. William Woodward's Hypnotist, so heavily backed in the Derby, in which it was unplaced, was a popular winner in the King Edward VII Stakes. It started at even money.

Other successful favourites were Mr. James Rank's Michoumy, which started at 6 to 5 in the Churchill Stakes and Lord Glanely's two-year-old colt, Rose of England, whose starting price was 5 to 4 in the Chesham Stakes.

Mr. R. S. Clark's Galatea 11, winner of the Oaks, a 11 to 8 favourite, was surprisingly unplaced in the Coronation Stakes, in which Lord Glanely was again successful with his three-year-old filly Olein, which started at 6 to 1.

Like Rose of England, Olein is trained by Basil Jarvis, who made a hat-trick when Alistair, owned by Mr. W. R. Lysaght, narrowly won the Bessborough Stakes, starting at 100 to 8.

Odds On Favourite Beaten

Another upset was the defeat, by a neck, of the odds on favourite, Panorama, quoted at 4 to 9, in the Fernhill Stakes, by Lady Beatty's Gold Vista, a outsider with the price of 100 to 8.

It was ridden by the veteran Australian jockey, Brownie Carslake, who also rode another winner, Michoumy, and gained places in two other races.

Sir Abe Bailey's four-year-old Caerloptic won the Royal Hunt Cup, the chief handicap of the meeting, by a length from Mr. Chris Jarvis's Galsonia, with Lord Derby's Greenwich, three-quarters of a length away, third.

There were 24 starters. The betting was 100 to 8 on Caerloptic, 20 to 1 on Galsonia and 25 to 1 on Greenwich.

Sir Abe Bailey, who has lost both legs, was carried on to the course in a chair. It was his last Ascot before finally returning to South Africa.

Among those who were present today were the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester and the Duke and Duchess of Kent.

Sir Abe Bailey, with Caerloptic, repeated his success of 30 years ago, when he won the race with Dark Ronald.

Caerloptic is only a half-breed, as his dam, Soloptic, does not appear in the stud book.

Sir Abe Bailey's Luck

Sir Abe Bailey must be considered lucky to win the race since Caerloptic was among other horses involved in a serious fire at trainer Cottrill's headquarters on June 4, when one of his horses, Four Notables, was burned to death. Happily, Caerloptic was untouched.

Many thought that Lord Derby's Greenwich was winning comfortably when it was lengths ahead of the competition about half way, but Jockey Beary, staging a well-timed run, swooped on the leaders from the far side, bringing Caerloptic through to prevent Galsonia improving on the second place she won in the race last year.

The winner's time for the distance of seven furlongs and 155 yards was one minute and 38⅘ seconds.—Reuter.

S.C.C. Musters Powerful Side For Wood Trophy Match

Fine Form Shown By Club Players in League Makes Them Favourites; Recs XI Facing Hard Task

THE spotlight of attention, insofar as cricket is concerned, will be focussed this weekend on the Recs' ground where the senior sides of the Shanghai Cricket Club and Shanghai Recreation Club will engage each other in the first match of the 1939 Wood Trophy Series. The game will begin at 1.30 p.m. Saturday and will be continued the following day at 11.30 a.m. Stumps will be drawn each day at 6.45 p.m. while lunch will be taken on Sunday between 1.15 p.m. and 2 p.m.

The trophy is now in the possession of the S.C.C., who, it will be remembered, accounted for their old rivals somewhat easily last summer, the second and third matches ending in their favour after the first encounter was abandoned half-way through, when the pitch was rendered unplayable by a cloudburst.

Both teams are very strong. Of that there is no doubt, but in view of the convincing performances already shown this year by so many S.C.C. players, the visitors will start heavy favourites to capture the first leg of the series.

The S.C.C. XI, captained by Leach, fairly bristles with batting power, each and every player, with the possible exception of Pearson, being a tried and tested performer and a potential scorer of at least 50 runs per innings. Already this year, seven of those included have knocked-up 50 or more in league engagements, the acid test of local cricket, which in itself gives some slight idea of the difficulties confronting the Recs' bowlers.

Club Attack Also Strong

The attack at Leach's command, too, is exceptionally well balanced, containing as it does, six class bowlers and at least two others who are able to send down good deliveries. The only deficiency would appear to be a really fast bowler, but Duckitt, who has been coming off the pitch with a really nasty nip in recent games, will probably make up for any lack in this direction. Leach, Booth, Duckitt, Jenkins, Pearson, Stokes with Dean and Pote-Hunt comprise a wealth of bowling talent that any skipper would be pleased to have under his command.

Turning to the Recs whose performances this season have not been quite so impressive, we find a useful side that will give their friendly adversaries a good run before the encounter draws to a close. The attack appears stronger than the batting, for with such players in the side as Pat Madar, Wilson, Kermani, Divecha, Kliene and Hart-Baker, they are well armed in respect of bowlers, although, with the exception of Kliene, most of them are inclined to be on the slow side in their deliveries.

Kliene, who improves with each appearance, however, may cause some trouble among the S.C.C. bats and the chances offered off the slow bowlers will certainly be grabbed up like lightning, since there is little doubt that as a purely fielding team, the Recs have an edge over their opponents, their catching, throwing and ground work all being up to a high standard.

The batting of the Recs' is definitely not as strong as that of the S.C.C. and although there are several good batsmen selected, only Hart-Baker, Divecha, Kermani and Pat Madar have been seen to advantage this year.

S.C.C. Picked to Win

The S.C.C. should be victorious, but whatever happens, some exceptionally interesting cricket is certain to be seen by the many who attend.

On Saturday afternoon on the S.C.C. ground, an S.C.C. XI will engage a Recs' XI in a friendly encounter, while on the adjoining Police matting-wicket the same afternoon another friendly game will see the Police and Shaforce in opposition.

On Sunday, still another Recs XI will visit the S.C.C. ground where the hosts will be putting out their third team for the week-end in what promises to be yet again a close struggle of a friendly nature.

S.C.C. v. S.R.C. Saturday, 1.30 p.m. and Sunday, 11.30 a.m. S.R.C. Ground.

Safety First Week In Shanghai

To Open Sunday Morning And Conclude One Week Hence; Pictorial Record

The committee in charge of Shanghai's Safety First campaign, Mr. J. D. E. Shotter, chairman, met representatives of the press at the Grand Theatre at noon yesterday and explained the various items of printed matter and other schemes, which they had prepared to acquaint the civilian population of Shanghai of the dangers of local traffic. Safety First week will begin on Sunday morning and officially be closed on the following Saturday at midnight, although efforts of the two Councils, representatives of public utilities and associated organizations by no means will be discontinued at that time.

Attending the meeting were the following members of the committee or their delegates:—Messrs. J. D. E. Shotter and H. N. Muir (buses and trams), H. K. Butler (propaganda), R. W. Brewer (hire cars), Dr. Chiling Yin (rickshaws, handcarts and barrows), Kyat Tong (cyclists), R. N. Swann (private cars), D. J. Chalmers (omnibuses), R. Fife (trams), R. Manly-Allatt and W. Golding (trucks, private and public), E. C. Baker, J. Leslie and Maffre (S.M.C. and F.M.C. Traffic Departments), J. D. E. Shotter (foreign radio), A. Pullen (Chinese radio), A. MacGregor (pedestrians) and H. C. Chen (education—schools).

Mr. J. D. E. Shotter, opening the meeting, pointed out the necessity for this campaign, and suggested the immense amount of work the committee with its various sub-committees had done. No less than 1,000,000 pamphlets, handbills, posters, hoardings, flags, pennants and buttons for all sections concerned, had been prepared and were being distributed.

Crying Need for Control

The crying demand for control of traffic and the educational facilities which must be incorporated in such a campaign were stressed and then he turned over the chair to Mr. Pullen who, in detail, enumerated the varied work of the various committees, each of which culminated into a combined drive. To Mr. MacGregor of the Telephone Company, he paid particular tribute for the work of his committee in dealing with education of the pedestrians.

In general, Mr. Pullen indicated that the radio, lecturers and Boy Scouts were the greatest factors in educating the pedestrians, but the excellent work of the Asia Theatres, Inc., in preparing the huge amount of printed material, came in for equal importance.

He felt, Mr. Pullen continued, that the work of the committee will not have been in vain, but urged the general public, in furtherance the cause, to take a keen interest during the coming week's drive and, as well, throughout the year.

Wickets Fall Fast in Friendly Match

Cathedral Schoolboys Do Well in Bowling

Wickets fell like nine pins on the S.C.C. Small Ground yesterday evening in the first session of a two-day friendly cricket match between an S.C.C. XI and the Cathedral School, the youngsters all being retired for only 54, while the Club could only muster 75 for eight wickets when they went in to bat. The game will be continued this evening and it is probable that the S.C.C. side will gain an easy victory.

Only Harvey of the scholars was able to reach double figures, his valuable knock including three boundary hits. Half the side were out for 37, but the tail-enders showed no improvement and the team was retired for a mere 54.

Sluis and Johns hit out splendidly for an excellent first-wicket partnership when the S.C.C. went in and passed the School's total before the first named was bowled by Greenfield. Johns continued to bat well and was the one batsman of the day who made his strokes as if he were getting a proper sight of the ball. He made his runs in an enterprising manner, attacking the bowling continually, finally hitting his wicket down from a ball from Greenfield after scoring 49 out of 70. Forty of his runs came from boundaries, the tapes being reached on seven occasions, while he twice lofted the ball over them for sixes.

After his dismissal, the next four wickets fell for the addition of another five runs to leave the S.C.C. 21 runs ahead with two wickets in hand.

Greenfield proved the most successful attacker, securing four good wickets at a cost of under four runs apiece.

The game will be continued this afternoon when it is hoped to allow the schoolboys another turn at the crease.

C.S.F. "Red" Trounces Country Club "B"

One-Sided Results Seen In Women's Tennis

One-sided scores again featured play in the First Division of the Shanghai Ladies Tennis League yesterday, when the Country Club "A" trounced the Swiss Club on the latter's grounds by 8 to 1 and the Cercle Sportif Francais "Red" vanquished the Country Club "B" on the losers' courts by 9-0.

The first team of the Country Club dropped the first set in the second doubles when Mrs. Lewis Bryan and Mrs. L. Ovadia were slow to warm up, giving Mrs. Duff and Mrs. Palmer the chance of jumping into the lead by 6-3. However, the ultimate winners showed their usual form in the following two sets and won handily by 6-1 and 6-0.

The second team of the Country Club made its first appearance against the strong C.S.F. "Red" and, though the homesters tried hard, they were unable to cope with the superiority of the French players.

In the Second Division the Columbia Country Club continued to dominate as they took the measure of the Deutscher Tennis Klub on the latter's courts by a score of six sets to three.

Mrs. Kullmann and Mrs. Krehlig lost the opening set to Misses Sheridan and Harrop but came back in sterling manner to win the next two frames by 6-4 and 6-4.

On the Rowing Club grounds the home team defeated the Bramtoco Tennis Club by 8 to 1. The losers won only one set in the first doubles and nearly gained another one in the third couples, as the score in the second set read 8-6.

At the Cercle Sportif Francais the French team trounced the Associacao Das Senhoras Portuguesas "B" squad by 6 sets to 2, the ninth frame being uncompleted on account of darkness. With the exception of the second pair, play was extremely close.

Kunming-Suifu Road Not Yet Ready

Foreign Engineer Forced To Abandon Trip

Chungking, June 15.

The new highway linking Kunming with Suifu, on the Yangtze above Chungking, which is intended to be an alternative route between the interior and the Indo-China and Burma outlets to the sea, will not be completed for at least five months, according to foreign reports.

Considerable portions of the road have been built, and it was expected to be open for traffic soon, but a foreign engineer who attempted to take a lorry along the road was forced to give up the attempt, according to his story there are bridges over the numerous streams, and he only succeeded in proceeding by constructing his own temporary bridges where fording was impracticable.

The highway, he reported, was in poor condition. In places it was unmetalled, and in others strewn with boulders that were apparently to be broken up later for road metal. Finally, when more than two-thirds of the journey had been accomplished with much effort, it was found that there was a gap of more than a hundred kilometres between the portion that was being constructed from the Kunming end and that being built from Suifu, whereupon the attempt was abandoned.

Some disappointment is expressed in foreign commercial circles that this important project, affording an alternative route to the overloaded Chungking-Kweiyang-Kunming road, has not been prosecuted more vigorously, bearing in mind its importance to China's present communications.—Reuter.

Foreigners, Chinese Not Allowed Into Hungjao

With the exception of residents of that district, the Japanese sentries at the Hungjao Road railway crossing stopped all foreigners from proceeding to Hungjao after 6 p.m. yesterday, notwithstanding the fact that they produced cholera passes. No explanation was given and Bubbling Well police station questioned on the subject last night, said that they did not know the reason for this measure. Many riders and walkers were turned back.

Police, Gunmen Exchange Shots

No Casualties in Jessfield Road Gun Battle

Walking along Jessfield Road near St. John's University at about 11.45 a.m. yesterday, six men, presumed to be members, of a gang of extortioners operating in that district, opened fire with their Mauser automatic pistols when they were ordered to halt and to submit to a search by two Sikh constables attached to Bubbling Well police station, who were on patrol duty at the time.

Instead of obeying the order, the thugs opened fire on the constables without fortunately hitting either one of them. The Sikhs in turn returned fire with their service revolvers but were unable to bring any of the men to fall. The gun-battle during which some 20 shots were exchanged, ended as suddenly as it had started, after the gunmen had been able to make their escape into "Ta Tao" territory where the Settlement constables could not follow them.

Immediately on receipt of the report, a large group of detectives and uniformed police officers from Bubbling Well station, rushed to the scene, being able to pick up several cartridge cases which have been sent to the arms identification section of the S.M.P. where it will be ascertained whether any of the weapons used in the shooting have a police history.

Investigations are being continued and hospitals have been requested to inform the police of any gunwound which they may be asked to treat, it being held possible that one or more members of the gang were injured, their wounds not being serious enough to prevent them from escaping.

Peiping Landlords Order Not to Raise Rents

Without the consent of landlords tenants are not allowed to effect changes to their houses, to sub-let spare rooms to others or to delay the payment of rent. Landlords are forbidden to raise house rents on the ground of increased cost of living, according to the regulations.—Reuter.

Submarine Salvaging Suggested in Commons

Present Devices Described As Not Strong Enough

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, June 14.

Mr. David Kirkwood, Labour member for Dumbarton Burghs, asked in the House of Commons today if the Admiralty was aware that there were no means of fixing ropes or hawsers on to the sunken submarine Thetis.

He also asked if the Admiralty would consider the advisability of fixing shackle-plates to the submarine, similar to those to which check-chains were attached when a big ship was launched on the Clyde.

Mr. Geoffrey Shakespeare, Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, replied that the devices mentioned by Mr. Kirkwood existed, but that they were not sufficiently strong to enable a sunken submarine to be lifted.

This, and similar questions affecting the salvage of submarines, were, however, being reviewed, Mr. Shakespeare added.—Reuter.

Submarine Escort in Trials

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, June 14.

Arising out of the question of the loss of the submarine Thetis, the Parliamentary Secretary of the Admiralty, Mr. Geoffrey Shakespeare, said in the House of Commons today that arrangements were being made for a Naval vessel to accompany submarines when carrying out builders' diving trials, and to ensure communication at reasonable intervals.—Reuter.

Tripartite Cotton Association

Japan Plans Osaka, Manchu, Chinese Combine

Peiping, June 15.

A joint Sino-Japanese-Manchoukuo cotton association will shortly be inaugurated in Osaka in order to "promote friendly relations between the three countries and to strengthen the tripartite economic tie," according to Chinese reports.

Representatives of Chinese, Japanese and Manchoukuo cotton interests will compose the staff of the association, which will meet once a year in April, meeting in places in China, Japan and Manchoukuo in turn. Extraordinary meetings may be called at the discretion of a standing committee of the association.

The association will have as its chief objective the study of the relative cotton situation in the three countries and the handling of matters of common interest.—Reuter.

Dividends distributed to creditors of all active receiverships during the month of March amounted to $1,103,-406, it was stated.—United Press.

Chinese Newsmen Again Threatened

Mr. Wang Ching-wei's Organization Send Letters to Press.

"In the event that there are further reports opposing Mr. Wang Ching-wei, supporting the communists and opposing the peace movement, we cannot but identify you with the communist party, blotting to overthrow the nation. We shall no longer take a lenient view and will give you no further warning but will assign our officers to carry out the death sentence in accordance with the laws of the nation" is part of the contents of a threatening letter received in news-rooms of various Chinese language dailies yesterday, in what is believed to be the first public move of Mr. Wang Ching-wei's supporters ever since he first sided with the Japanese after being expulsed from the Chinese National Government and the Kuomintang.

The letters, stereotyped from a typewritten message, appealed to Chinese newspaper men to refrain from attacking the peace proposals of Mr. Wang and were signed by the "Headquarters of the Special Service Department for the Extermination of Communists and the Salvation of the Nation of the Kungmingtang of China."

"We regret your unfavourable reports and malicious criticisms against Deputy Executive Wang Ching-wei and his peace movement," the note said in part, "and the great movement and Mr. Wang's good intentions to save the nation and the party are supported all over the nation except by the communists who are plotting to ruin everything."

"When you read this letter, it is up to you to make a decision. If you want to test your ability, it is also up to you" the note concluded.

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

NO PESSIMISM

That the situation regarding British relations with Japan is becoming increasingly grave is the only possible conclusion to be drawn from the telegrams which are published today, and for the moment there does not appear to be very much chance of matters improving. In Kulangsu not only is communication with Amoy cut off, but it is now reported that the Japanese have established a blockade which in fact amounts to a siege, the entry of firewood, charcoal and vegetables into the island being banned. That does not appear to have taken place in Tientsin, though it is reported that suppliers of foodstuffs are reluctant to bring them into the two concessions for fear of being held to have given the British and French assistance. Kulangsu is consequently faced with what amounts to a siege in order, according to the Japanese spokesman to "bring the Kulangsu Municipal Council to their senses," while in Tientsin the possibility of the two Concessions ultimately being deprived of foodstuffs, or at least fresh foodstuffs, is something which cannot be ignored. What is of even more seriousness is the fact that the Japanese from their original demand for the surrender of the four Chinese suspected of murder have broadened their requirements to an extent which cuts to the roots the very existence of the Concessions as British and French, and upon these extended demands seek an unconditional surrender. Despite reports to the contrary the State Department in Washington flatly denies that the United States Government had offered to mediate in the Tientsin dispute. This is most probably the case, for no nation would care to intervene unless it saw some chance of bringing about a readjustment, which in all the circumstances does not yet appear likely. Indeed mediation by the United States may have its own attendant difficulties, for it is clearly recognized that, while Great Britain and France are at present singled out for these unpleasant attentions, the probability of their ultimately being levelled against the United States as well as other nations not yet affected has always to be borne in mind.

Even if the United States consented to mediate there is very little likelihood that the Japanese Government in its present temper would be prepared to listen, for while scrupulous care has been taken to avoid giving too much provocation to America, it is not to be believed that Tokyo would be prepared to abandon schemes which are not the outcome of recent events, but the result of long months of planning. It must be emphasized that what is happening now in Tientsin, and Kulangsu has been expected for months past, as forming a part of the general Japanese scheme of "Asia for the Asiatics," the total elimination of third party foreign neutrals from China, and the complete destruction of their trade. The singling out of Great Britain for first treatment, and the inclusion of France because of the fact that the French Concession being adjacent to the British the blockade could not have been made complete without the inclusion of the former, indicates a desire to attack the question piecemeal. Should the Japanese be able to prevail in Tientsin there are other portions of China where the same tactics may confidently be expected to be employed, and it is very obviously the Japanese hope that by following such tactics it may be possible to achieve what would be impossible were a general assault on all foreign interests in China embarked upon. Parallel action having already been decided upon by Great Britain, France and the United States it is naturally in Japanese interests that this should be broken up at the earliest possible moment. Should it be, the lot of the foreigner in the Far East will indeed be lamentable, but there is no indication that the Japanese will succeed, or that in the ultimate result the United States will stand aloof from developments which must eventually harm the interests of their own nationals. The attempt to drive a wedge between Britain and France on the one hand, and the United States on the other was only to be expected, but such tactics will deceive no one, and, unless some very astonishing change comes over the situation, is without the remotest chance of succeeding.

Those who are inclined to take a pessimistic view of the situation should be made to realize that such an outlook, while comprehensible, is not justified. This new struggle is only just beginning, and this present offensive against British interests is not the first, and will, in all probability, not be the last before this China Incident comes to a conclusion. Nor are those who impatiently demand early retaliatory action by the British Government entirely wise. It is admitted that Great Britain, France and the United States have in their hands weapons of the strongest possible nature, capable of inflicting more economic harm upon Japan than she can ever do to the interests of third party neutrals in China. They are weapons of such potentiality that the greatest possible care will be required in their utilization, but it is obvious that a country the largest portion of whose trade is with those three Powers runs serious risk of grave damage should her conduct lead them to deal with her in a spot where she is most vulnerable. History has time and time again proved that Great Britain can be long suffering, but it has also shown that it does not forget, and if the British Government in dealing with the situation acts somewhat more slowly than some people would like, it must be remembered that of the many issues in which Great Britain is involved the solution is not yet. That may have to come in Great Britain's own time, but when it does come the reckoning will be complete. Whether in war, or in peace, it must be remembered that it is the last victory which counts, and the inconveniences of the moment have to be endured with the assurance that the outcome will be one which every Briton, nay every third party Power interested in China wishes. The future should be awaited then with that calmness and confidence which is even now being displayed in Tientsin and Kulangsu. There is not the slightest occasion for panic. That indeed would be harmful, but the long view suggests that no matter what inconveniences may have to be put up with now and in the near future, the outcome can never be in doubt.

Brave Men

One of the outstanding details of the accounts of the recent attempt to murder Japanese and Chinese officials at Nanking, while dining at the Japanese Consulate-General there, is the story of the bravery of the two Japanese chancellors, who, though poisoned themselves, devoted the time they might have used to secure their own safety to succouring the other officials afflicted. Of this attempt at mass assassination which fortunately was no more successful than to cause the deaths of two heroic men, there cannot be anything except the strongest condemnation. Murder by poisoning has always been regarded with greater detestation than any other form, and this attempt to wipe out a number of men round the dinner table is a particularly heinous one. Messrs. Tamakichi Miyashita, and Minosaku Funayama drank the poisoned wine as did the rest of those present. In the words of the Vice Minister for Foreign Affairs, in a statement which he issued on his return to Tokyo these two young members of the Consular staff "ignored their own symptoms of poisoning to attend to others. They neglected their own condition so long that they ultimately died. They could have been saved by proper attention." This is a type of bravery before which all considerations of race disappear in the homage which must be paid to men of such courage, and self-sacrifice. They have died for their country just as truly as those others who fall on the field of battle, for they were obviously thwarting enemies of their nation responsible for the poisoning, and there cannot be anything but the greatest admiration for the cold courage with which they faced death in their successful endeavour to save others. It is stated that one of the Chinese responsible for the attempted assassination has already been arrested, and it is expected that his accomplice will shortly be apprehended. It is hoped that this will be the case, for there cannot be the slightest excuse for so contemptible a murder plot.

Clothing The New Army

The creation of Britain's new militia army, involving many drastic changes in service and administrative details, should provide a good opportunity for some essential reforms, especially in the matter of clothing. With all due respect to the War Office and its creative capacity, the British military uniform is about one of the world's worst, possessing neither cut which conduces to smartness or compactness which conduces to usefulness. In a general way, it is a sturdy piece of clothing, standing lots of rough and tumble wear in a vigorous job like that of a soldier but it has many defects through almost fanatical insistence on such useless and perfectly inefficient piece of attire such as puttees. No more substantiation of this fact could be quoted than in the efforts over the past few years to produce a new service uniform, and while designers have studiously attended to the efficiency side they neglected that appeal to sartorial smartness which is a creditable factor in turning out a smart-looking battalion. The idea in the past has been rather to reduce everybody to a sort of uninspiring and drab monotony rather than elevate individual pride by providing something worth while. Other armies may have developed a type of uniform of a dressy character giving the "old soldier" cause for undeserved merriment but, at least, it dispensed with the utterly useless puttees which constitute a considerable waste of time in rolling and donning. The new walking-out tunic is an improvement and removes the sense of inferiority, and perhaps with the new army even better things could be produced now the opportunity for complete reorganization on a new basis is available. Some thousands of miles of khaki have been ordered for the new army and a million pairs of boots are being manufactured—better boots, it is to be hoped, than in the past when men spent a considerable part of their time attempting to reconcile an unnecessary amount of dubbing with a demand for bright polish. Sir Frederick Marquis is the War Office honorary adviser on clothing and textile stores for the vast new army, and his ideas should be worth while for, as a Manchester man, he is Chairman of Lewis's provincial stores, which combine metropolitan progression in style with the economic demands of provincial customers who want things smart, durable and at a reasonable price.

Radio in Palestine

With the assistance of the British Broadcasting Corporation the British authorities in Palestine have developed, during the course of the last three years, what is now, in regard to programmes, equipment and personnel, the most important broadcasting service in the Near East. The three languages used, English, Arabic and Hebrew, are not rigidly separated, the times allotted to each being carefully dovetailed into each other; while there is overlapping, there is no confusion. Special attention is paid to musical programmes. The Jewish taste is for European music, but a great deal of time is given to Arab music also. Before the institution of broadcasting in Palestine, Arab music was confined to the unwritten, unrecorded performances of local players and singers. Now purely Arab music, as sung and played in the country districts, is regularly recorded with portable apparatus or preserved on paper in written notation. In proportion to the population, Palestine has probably more musical talent available than any other country in the world, and the Palestine Orchestra and the Choral Society attain a very high standard in their performance of classical music. Stories based on local folklore have now been dramatized, and these as well as other plays translated from other languages are played by voluntary teams of actors. Local talent is warmly encouraged, and an entirely new artform in the Arab language is being fostered. In the more practical fields of local effort the Palestine Broadcasting service gives valuable guidance to farmers and other workers, as well as excellent news services: and in order to bring entertainment and instruction to the peasant, communal receivers have been installed, free of charge, in meeting places and guest houses in a large number of villages.

Pertinent Questions for Husbands

ARE you unconversational at meals until you have finished eating, no matter how hard your wife struggles to be entertaining?

Do you disparage her food in front of the cook?

Do you dine in your shirt sleeves?

Do you refuse fancy desserts over which your wife has obviously worked hard?

Do you dunk cigarette butts in your demi tasse, or use your bread and butter plate for an ashtray?

Do you show no interest in menu planning, refusing to say what you would like for dinner, yet grumble at the food?

Do you gaily bring home friends for dinner on the maid's night out, without giving your wife any warning?

Do you expect the maid to drop everything in the middle of serving dinner to get what you order?

As soon as you have finished a meal do you leave the table—without waiting for anyone else?

Do you tie the napkin under your chin?

Do you perpetually demand some obscure sauce which is never in stock and then behave as if the whole meal is spoiled because you can't have it?

Mr. Lucifer Writes:

DEAR Mr. Gubbins, care of the "Sunday Express."

Thank you for forwarding letters from your readers complaining of my remarks about the ladies last week.

Of course, I am very sorry if I have hurt anybody's feelings, but then it is almost impossible to utter any truth about anything without upsetting somebody. Ladies, as you probably know, are particularly sensitive to the truth, probably because they hardly ever hear it and it is therefore rather a sock to them. Courtesy to the ladies in all circumstances is one of the brightest flowers of our civilization, but if carried too far may give them an exaggerated view of their own importance.

Your suggestion that I should conduct a correspondence column for the ladies is a good one, though you must be aware that I have many other things to do and could only give a fraction of my time to such matters.

It will not, of course, be the first occasion that I have advised ladies on affairs of the heart. I remember doing a roaring trade in love philtres two or three hundred years ago, and have run several matrimonial bureaus in various cities, including Carthage and ancient Athens.

Without boasting, I think I can say that I fixed up some very startling unions. They were highly successful from my point of view.

So, my dear Mr. Gubbins, if any of your lady readers would care to write to me and take advantage of my long and unique experiences I will be most happy to oblige.

Letters should be addressed to "The Lucifer Love Bureau, care of the Sunday Express, Fleet-street, London." Yours ever, MEPHY.

P. S.—The widow will oblige with beauty hints. She has a cleansing lotion for her women friends which will take the skin right off your face in five minutes.

Agitators Urge Crowds To Storm Concession

Durhams Turn Out with Machine-guns to Stop Possible Attempt to Rush Barriers; Searches Of Residents Cause Annoyance in Tientsin

Tientsin, June 15.

THE situation in the foreign Concessions showed no serious development today, the second day of the blockade which is being enforced by the Japanese. The highlights of today's events were :—

An unsuccessful attempt by agitators to incite a crowd of about 2,000 Chinese to rush the British Concession barriers ;

The distribution of inflammatory literature by police of the former German Concession—now Japanese-controlled territory ; and

The detention and search of several foreign vessels.

Meanwhile, the food situation appears to be deteriorating. The attempt to incite a Chinese crowd to rush the British Concession occurred this morning, when the Chinese, who had lined up for examination by Japanese patrols prior to entering the British Concession along Race Course Road for lawful purposes were harangued by agitators.

The agitators urged the Chinese to rush the Concession defences.

A detachment of the Durham Light Infantry, armed with machine-guns, rushed to the spot, and took up their stand across the road with bayonets fixed. The efforts of the agitators, however, met with failure, and the crowd showed no disposition to attempt to rush the British Concession defences.

At 3 p.m., the crowd began to disperse, despite efforts on the part of the agitators, as by that time they had lost hope that they would be able to gain lawful admission to the Concession. The Durhams were withdrawn at 3.30 p.m.

Police Distribute Pamphlets

Uniformed Chinese policemen of the former German Concession could plainly be seen taking part in the distribution of inflammatory literature which formed another of the developments during the second day of the blockade. Some of the handbills were blown into the British Concession.

The areas bordering the British and French Concessions were flooded with multi-coloured handbills, inciting the populace to action against the Concessions. The following were some of the slogans printed on the handbills :

"All Chinese should leave the British and French Concessions immediately."

"The British Concession is a hotbed of Kuomintang Communism."

"The retrocession of the Concessions means an end to disturbances."

Among the steamers stopped and searched by the Japanese today was the Haiping, flying the Norwegian flag. She left Tientsin in the early hours of the morning carrying cargo, and was detained for roughly five hours at the D.K.K. Wharf for a thorough examination, after which she was allowed to go on her way.

This afternoon, two cargo lighters which were proceeding to the Taku Bar were also stopped at the same place. The examiners intimated their intention of breaking up the packages for examination of their contents. A laodah protested violently against such action, however, emphasizing the fact that the cargo had been examined and sealed by the Customs, and therefore could not be broken up.

Owing to the fact that part of the cargo was German-owned, the matter was referred to the German shipper, who invoked the assistance of the German Consul in Tientsin. The Customs were also advised of the stoppage and intended search of the lighters. The two lighters were later released by the examiners, and allowed to proceed to Tangku. No further details as to their detention are yet available.

French Steamer Stopped

The French steamer Taiseunghong, under charter by Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co., arrived here this afternoon. She tied up at the D.K.K. Wharf for examination, which proved to a perfunctory affair, lasting for about 15 minutes. The Japanese officials, according to the skipper of the vessel, were "very courteous." The Taiseunghong was the first foreign vessel to arrive since the beginning of the blockade.

The first day of the blockade yesterday passed off without any major incidents, although indignities are understood to have been inflicted upon a number of foreigners.

The Japanese concentrated upon British and French nationals, some of whom were detained, and minutely questioned, while their cars were thoroughly ransacked, involving in one instance a delay of one hour.

There were several cases in which respected members of the British community were forced to take off their shoes and socks, much to their indignation.

The Japanese authorities were reported to have been equally strict with Japanese seeking admission to the foreign areas. They were more lenient, however, with other nationals, such as Germans and Italians. At least two cases were, however, reported of German women being searched.

Russian women were also searched, despite the fact that they produced certificates testifying that they had been registered with the local Anti-Communist Committee. The women were searched by female searchers, but it is understood that they were not forced to strip.

There were many authentic instances of Britons being made to line up

Britain Considers Retaliation

Board of Trade Drawing Up Scheme; Deputations Call on Government

London, June 14.

The British Cabinet today asked the Board of Trade to report on retaliatory economic measures that might be effectively applied against Japan should the Tientsin blockade be maintained "too long," Havas learned on good authority tonight.

Steps contemplated would be applied progressively, and they include the following:

Special harbour dues for Japanese ships calling at British ports or, in fact, limitation of Japanese vessels' usage of British ports.

Increased taxation and quotas limiting imports of Japanese goods into British colonies.

Special measures against Japan's currency.

The Cabinet was awaiting today a full report on the Anglo-Japanese dispute from Sir Robert Craigie, British Ambassador to Tokyo.

The Government wished to make sure first of all whether or not the Japanese Government was supporting the local Tientsin authorities in their blockade of the British Concession.

Amicable Solution Doubted

Little hope for an amicable solution of the Tientsin problem was held in Government quarters, however, and it was predicted that the retaliatory measures envisaged by the Board of Trade would be applied sooner or later.

Encouragement for the Government to adopt a strong attitude towards Japan in this case was seen this afternoon in the many representations made by various Parliamentary groups, urging a resolute stand.

Mr. R. A. Butler, Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, received a delegation of experts on Far Eastern questions while in the House of Commons.

The men represented the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Government majority in Parliament and included Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, Mr. Adrian Charles Moreing, Sir Nairne Stewart Sandeman and Lord Elibank.

They advocated strong action in reply to Japan's blockade of the Tientsin British Concession.

Mr. Butler, it was said, reacted favourably to this representation and declared he would immediately communicate the delegation's views to Lord Halifax, Foreign Secretary.

Earlier in the afternoon, Mr. Butler received a Labour delegation which voiced similar views on the situation in the North China port. —Havas.

Japan Prepared

Tokyo, June 15.

Japan's attitude toward the British and French Concessions at Tientsin never would be affected by economic reprisals on the part of the British Government, according to a press message from Tientsin today which said London was reported to be contemplating such action.

Japanese authorities at Tientsin already had prepared another plan to meet new developments in case Britain persisted in her "anti-Japanese and pro-Chiang Kai-shek policy," the message stated.

The message asserted that "isolation" of the Tientsin concessions was an "epoch-making" development in the Japanese attitude toward foreign concessions in China.

It showed Japan's "grim determination" to seek a fundamental solution of the concession question as a whole, instead of a settlement of individual problems one by one, the dispatch declared.

The message traced the present "ugly affair" in Tientsin to misunderstanding of the situation by the British Government, "which failed to realize Japan's determination and preparations, being misled by Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, British Ambassador, who supports the Gen Chiang Kai-shek regime out and out as contrasted with the conciliatory attitude of Sir Robert Craigie, British Ambassador to Japan."

"Empty Threats"

Authoritative quarters in Tokyo were inclined to regard reports of possible British economic pressure against Japan as empty threats.

Japanese authorities were said to be preparing adequate precautionary measures against such an eventuality.

If Britain enforced discriminatory measures against Japanese shipping it would be a violation of the Anglo-Japanese Commercial Treaty, and result in aggravation of Anglo-Japanese relations by the extension of a purely political question into the economic field, informed observers pointed out.—Domei.

Tokyo's Warning

Tokyo, June 15.

An ominous warning that Japan's attitude toward Britain in China would only become stiffer if Britain attempts to retaliate against the Japanese blockade of the British Concession in Tientsin was sounded in Japanese Foreign Office circles here today.

Japanese Rush Troops To Concession Border

Tientsin, June 15.

The incident on Race Course Road this morning, when agitators unsuccessfully attempted to incite a Chinese crowd into rushing the British Concession, had its sequel 10 minutes after the withdrawal of the Durham Light Infantry detachment from the boundary. A Japanese infantry detachment, armed with a machine-gun, dashed up, headed by an officer mounted on a charger. They deployed with clockwork precision facing the British Concession. After remaining there for some time, they withdrew.—Reuter.

Premier Comments On Crisis

Implications of Japanese Statements Considered to Be Grave; Position Studied

London, June 15.

The British military authorities in Tientsin are taking "all precautions" for maintaining order in view of the blockade, and the British escort vessel Lowestoft (990 tons) is moored alongside the British Concession Bund, declared Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Prime Minister, in the House of Commons today.

Mr. Chamberlain made a statement on the Tientsin situation in answer to questions by Mr. Arthur Greenwood, the Labour leader, who spoke on behalf of the Opposition in the absence of Mr. C. R. Attlee, the Leader of the Opposition.

He said the blockade of the foreign concessions had begun at 6 a.m. on June 14. British subjects, and other foreigners, were being detained and searched at the barriers.

"I understand." Mr. Chamberlain stated, "that food supplies are being allowed into the Concession, but there would appear to be a tendency for prices to rise."

There had also been interference with British shipping, Mr. Chamberlain went on, up and down the river.

Representations in Tokyo

Sir Robert Craigie (the British Ambassador in Tokyo) had lodged representations with Mr. Hachiro Arita (the Japanese Foreign Minister), and had been instructed to point out the danger of provocative action by local Japanese "which might lead to regrettable incidents."

Sir Robert further had drawn Mr. Arita's attention to the serious implication of the statement made by a Japanese spokesman in Tientsin, to the effect that the questions at issue could not be settled by he handing over of the four accused men; but that the object of the blockade was to secure a much wider form of co-operation from the British authorities in China.

It was clear that if this statement represented the views of the Tokyo authorities, the Japanese were using the incident to make demands which were wider and more far-reaching than the handing over of the four men.

Such demands, the Prime Minister declared, would raise important questions of policy, in which other great Powers were concerned no less than was Great Britain. The closest touch was being maintained with the French and United States Governments.

In the meantime, the British Government was considering the situation created by the refusal of the Japanese to accept the proposal to appoint a committee of enquiry; and by their continuance of the blockade of the Concessions.

Possible Appeal to League

A number of supplementary questions followed. Mr. Arthur Henderson, the Labour leader, asked whether the Government intended to invoke Article Seven of the Nine Power Treaty, which provided for full consultation between all signatory Powers where a situation arose contrary to the principles of the treaty.

The Prime Minister replied that the situation obviously was a grave one, and the British Government was considering it in all its aspects.

"I am not prepared at this moment to say what action we shall decide to take," he added.

Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, Conservative member for the Kidderminster division of Worcestershire, asked whether the Prime Minister would consider the advisability of notifying the Japanese Government that, if the blockade were not raised within 24 hours, the Anglo-Japanese Agreement of 1911 would be denounced forthwith.

The Prime Minister replied that could not add anything to the statement he had already made.

Mr. Geoffrey Mander, Opposition Liberal member for Eastern Wolverhampton, suggested that a special meeting of the League Council be called to consider what steps could be taken, in order to emphasize the international aspect of the matter.—Reuter.

Japanese Cut Kulangsu Off From Mainland

Serious Position in International Settlement Results ; Alleged Smuggling of Terrorists

Amoy, June 15.

THE Japanese have begun a blockade of Kulangsu. Three Japanese warships are stopping all supplies from the mainland, with the result that the overcrowded population of 50,000 in the International Settlement of Kulangsu is facing a precarious situation.

The Japanese press announces that the entry into Kulangsu of firewood, charcoal and vegetables has been banned.

According to a Japanese spokesman, the intention of the Japanese is to "bring the Kulangsu Municipal Council to their senses" in connection with the Japanese demands.

Surprise has been caused by the Japanese action, in view of an assurance given by the Japanese authorities that they will co-operate with the Council in suppressing subversive activities.—Reuter.

Ultimatum Reported

Hongkong, June 15.

The situation in Kulangsu was reported to have become tense again today after the Japanese authorities were understood to have delivered an ultimatum to the Kulangsu Municipal Council demanding immediate acceptance of Japanese demands for control of the foreign area.

Simultaneously, the Japanese navy was reported to have imposed blockade measures against Kulangsu similar to those being enforced at Tientsin. The Kulangsu Municipal Council was reported to have delivered to the Japanese a vigorous protest against the new blockade which already is causing a food shortage on the small island.

Diplomatic negotiations between the Municipal Council and the Japanese authorities are understood to have broken down in Kulangsu, leaving the Japanese with the choice of taking armed action against American, British and French bluejackets on the island or moderating their demands. —United Press.

Agitators "Smuggled"

Tokyo, June 15.

Japanese efforts to stop smuggling of Chinese agitators from the mainland to Kulangsu were being frustrated by British vessels, according to a press message from Amoy today.

The dispatch said the Yangtaishan, a vessel owned by the Asiatic Petroleum Company, a British concern, had been detected breaking through the Japanese blockade and smuggling Chinese or goods from Sungsu on the mainland to the International Settlement.

Japanese authorities were likely to take prompt action in the matter, according to the message.

Meanwhile, Rear-Admiral Masao Kanazawa, Chief of the Publicity Bureau of the Navy Office, declared here today that the Japanese authorities were firmly determined to effect an amicable settlement of the Kulangsu question.

The situation at Kulangsu had been temporarily pushed into the background, he said, by developments at Tientsin, but the question was not yet settled.

A Deadlock

Negotiations for a solution of the question had been deadlocked, he added, due to the "persistent stubborn attitude of third Powers and the Municipal Council authorities, who refuse to recognize realities."

"The Municipal Council lacks the ability to maintain peace and order in the International Settlement due to its defective organization," Rear-Admiral Kanazawa stated.

"Therefore Japanese authorities on the spot have been compelled to keep a landing party there until there is a prospect that peace and order can be fully maintained.

"The Japanese authorities were obliged also to suspend traffic between Kulangsu and the mainland for the purpose of stopping the smuggling of terrorists from the mainland."—Domei.

World Session for Rotarians

To Be Held Next Week In U.S. ; Spreading of Peace Ideal

Cleveland, O., June 15.

Rotary International, which started 34 years with four Chicagoans deciding to talk over living problems regularly and now embraces 205,000 members in 80 countries, will hold its 30th annual convention here June 19 to 23.

An expected 15,000 delegates from 60 countries will assemble to discuss American living modes and take home new ideas for improving the lot of their towns' citizens. The delegates will be leaders of their local communities, representing industries and professions.

The main theme will be peace. Rotary, founded on the ideals of peace and friendship—international, interracial and interreligious—is eager to spread the peace ideal now while the world is torn by threats of war.

The organization has a four-point objective:

1. Development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service.
2. High ethical standards in business and professions.
3. Application of the ideal of service to personal, business and community life.
4. Advancement of international goodwill, understanding and peace, through unification of business and professional men in the service ideal.

The man who first called three friends in Chicago to discuss life's fundamental problems is Paul P. Harris, 71, a lawyer, who will be an honoured convention delegate. Their regular chats grew into Rotary International.

The organization's growth was slow at first. Only 18 clubs were formed in the first five years—until 1901. Then the national organization was set up to co-ordinate various tasks. The movement spread soon to Canada and then to England.

Its board of directors now represents fourteen nationals. The members:

George C. Hager, Chicago, president; Fernando Carbajal, Lima, Peru, first vice president; Nils Parmann, Oslo, Norway, second vice president; Charles Reeve Vanneman, Albany N. Y., third vice president; William R. Allen, Montreal; Frank C. Barnes, Manistee, Mich.; Maurice Deperrey, Paris; Francisco Marseillan, Buenos Aires; Karl Miller, Dodge City, Kan; Allen L. Oliver, Cape Girardeau, Mo.; Agripa Popescu, Bucharest, Rumania; G. M. Verrall Reed, Southgate, England; Carlos P. Romulo, Manila, P.I., and Richard H. Wells, Pocatello, Ida.—United Press.

Chinese Government Busy With Development Scheme

Chungking, June 15.

The Ministry of Finance, according to Chinese reports, will shortly issue "Savings and Reconstruction Resistance Certificates" in order to encourage savings and, at the same time, to assist the Government in financing reconstruction projects in the present war of resistance.

The Ministry of Finance, it is understood, has also instructed the four Government banks—the Central Bank of China, the Bank of China, the Bank of Communications, and the Farmers' Bank—immediately to complete the financial network in the south-west provinces for the convenience of the populace and to facilitate development projects in those provinces.—Reuter.

America Will Not Mediate

U.S. Interests Safeguarded, Says Mr. Cordell Hull; Tokyo Press Backs Blockade

Washington, June 14.

The State Department today flatly denied a report that the United States had offered to mediate in the Tientsin question.

Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, in reply to a question on the subject, said that he had no knowledge of any approach to the United States on the question of mediation.

The United States, he said, was determined to make every possible contribution to pacifying the situation. He declined to say that the Tientsin and Kulangsu situations were identical, declaring that conditions at two different places were never the same.

He further declared that the United States representative was giving every possible attention to the position in Tientsin and would as far as possible, protect United States nationals and interests there.

Mr. Cordell Hull added that full and adequate representations were being made to the Japanese from time to time to deal with specific instances requiring the attention of the Japanese authorities.

He said that United States shipping had been instructed some time ago not to carry arms, ammunition or implements of war into war areas, including the Tientsin region, and shipping interests had been warned that vessels doing so acted at their own risks.

He stated that there had been no special exchanges of views with Tokyo over the International Settlement at Kulangsu.—Reuter.

Tokyo Press Backs Action

Tokyo, June 15.

Full support of the Japanese action in Tientsin is voiced in leading articles in all newspapers this morning.

"As far as Japan is concerned, the Tientsin incident involves the question of British and French policy towards the Far East," declares the "Yomiuri Shimbun."

The "Asahi Shimbun" says that the "Concession issue is a minor matter. The question is entirely that of Great Britain's attitude towards Japan."

"It is Britain and France," the newspaper adds, "who have made their Concessions a base for China's operations against Japan. As long as Britain's conception regarding Japan does not undergo a fundamental change, friction of all kinds will exist.

"The Japanese people are determinedly prepared to deal with it."

The "Hochi Shimbun" declares: "Now that the arrow has been shot from the bow, and the sword has been unsheathed, even if the British authorities, out of fear, deliver the murderers to Japan, the unsheathed sword cannot be put back into the scabbard without a fundamental solution of the whole issue and the elimination of all evils throughout China that form obstacles to China's reconstruction."—Reuter.

Treatment of Tinkler by Japanese Doctor Related

Surgeon States Wound Not Serious, Witness Reveals at Inquest ; Commander's Action

DESCRIBING how the late Mr. R. M. Tinkler, labour superintendent at the China Printing & Finishing Co.'s Lun Chong mill at Pootung Point, had been struck three or four times by Commander Nojii, Commander of the Japanese Naval Landing Party in Pootung, and had then been dragged for about twenty-five yards, although bleeding profusely from wounds sustained during a skirmish with the Japanese marines on the mill premises, Mr. John Sharples, spinning supervisor at the mill, continued his evidence before Mr. C. H. Haines, H. M. Coroner yesterday, when the inquest on Mr. Tinkler was resumed. Scenes at the military hospital in Pootung, where Mr. Tinkler was detained for many hours by the Japanese were related by Mr. Sharples, who accompanied the injured man there and remained with him for several hours.

Mr. Tinkler, it will be recalled, died on June 7 as the result of wounds sustained during a fight with Japanese marines at the mill premises on June 6, when a group of Chinese strikers and strikebreakers were being escorted across the mill compound after having been involved in a fight on the company's pontoon.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Sharples stated in his evidence, he and other foreigners attempted to make a Japanese N.C.O. understand that some of the group of Chinese escorted by the marines were loyal workers. At that time Mr. Tinkler had appeared bleeding from the mouth.

Asked by the Coroner why he had armed himself, Mr. Sharples explained that when they had seen the coolies, armed with sticks, running towards the mill, with the Japanese marines walking behind, they had come to the conclusion that the Japanese were not affording the mill protection. His opinion was that the Japanese were allowing the coolies to attack the mill. As he thought that the foreigners might be attacked, they armed themselves as a precautionary measure.

Bleeding from Mouth

They had seven Webleys, he added but Tinkler's Mauser was his own private property. Instructions had been issued that the firearms were only to be used in case of urgent necessity. Tinkler had been placed in charge of the firearms and he had the authority to issue them at his own discretion.

Answering the Coroner, witness stated that he had not heard of any agreement made by the company with the Japanese that firearms could only be used with the prior consent of Commander Nojii.

As Tinkler arrived, bleeding from the mouth, he stated, Stott, Chadwick and himself were trying to make the Japanese N.C.O. understand that some of the Chinese were loyal people. The N.C.O., however, did not appear to understand. At this point Tinkler threatened the man with his gun and told him to take his men away, witness added, while Stott, Chadwick and himself tried to separate the company's launch crew from the gang of coolies. They were prevented, however, by the Japanese N.C.O.

Threatened Commander

Around about this time another bunch of marines were arriving from the direction of the mill. "This caused Tinkler to start flourishing his gun again and all the time we were trying to pacify him, but he threatened to hit us if we did not leave him alone," Mr. Sharples went on. By this time the Japanese had encircled them and witness saw Commander Nojii approaching them. At this point he stated to the others that as the Commander could speak English they could come to an arrangement.

As Commander Nojii approached them Tinkler threatened him with his gun and told him to take his men away. The Commander then went outside the circle of marines, who loaded their rifles and pointed them in the direction of witness and the other foreigners. "After about half-a-minute Commander Nojii beckoned me to go to him and he then asked me how the trouble had started and I was trying to explain to him when Stott joined us," witness added. "Stott and I explained that when the launch arrived with our loyal people the strikers came from sampans and joined our loyal people on the pontoon. All of them were placed together by the Japanese marines and were allowed to enter the mill."

Struck by Commander

Witness and Stott then asked Commander Nojii why he had allowed his people to let the strikers enter the mill and his reply was that if he had stopped them the trouble would have been much greater. At that time there was a scuffle and Stott and witness went towards Tinkler and asked him what was the matter. His reply was that he wanted to go to breakfast but the Japanese would not allow him to do so.

"I then left him with the intention of asking permission from Commander Nojii for his being allowed to go to breakfast," said Mr. Sharples, "when I heard another scuffle. I then

King, Queen End Tour of Canada

Big Reception Accorded Their Majesties ; Prince Edward Island Visited

Charlottetown, June 14.

Their Majesties, who arrived here today, crossed the Strait of Northumberland, from Cape Tormentine, in the destroyer Skeena, which escorted the Empress of Britain on its arrival in Canadian waters at the beginning of the tour.

It was the first occasion that His Majesty had set foot on a ship of the Royal Canadian Navy.

All along the route to the Province Building, Their Majesties were given an enthusiastic welcome by hundreds of spectators, many of whom were drenched to the skin by a heavy downpour earlier in the day as they were taking up positions.

An address of welcome was read by the Prime Minister, Mr. Thane Campbell, in the historic Confederation Chamber, where in 1864, the first steps were taken towards a Federation of Canadian colonies.

The King used the table at which the delegates sat.

Visit Enjoyed

The hope that they may be able to pay a return visit to Canada, with Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose, was expressed by the King today in reply to an address of welcome from Prince Edward Island, read by Mr. Thane Campbell, the Prime Minister.

In welcoming Their Majesties, Mr. Campbell said: "The industrious and law-abiding citizens of Your Majesty's smallest Province in Canada have learned to admire and respect the many noble qualities which have endeared Your Majesty's person to all subjects under the British crown."

The King, in reply, said: "We have much enjoyed our visit to your lovely Province and share your hope that, at some future time, we may be able, accompanied by our daughters, to visit you again."—Reuter.

New Rumour

Charlottetown, June 15.

The King's reference to the Princesses followed earlier rumours in London that Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose might visit Canada soon.

The King's message again stressed the blessings of democratic principles.

"It has been good to see the enviable connections here where members of different races dwell as citizens of Canada and the British Commonwealth of Nations," he said. "Their life exhibits blessings which abound where democratic principles flourishing in an atmosphere of tolerance and goodwill."—United Press.

The King, in an Admiral's uniform and protected by a cloak, and the Queen, in a water-proof, escaped the rain, though the rest of the Royal party got severely soaked. —Reuter.

Intervention in Spain Discussed in Commons

British Protest Not to Be Forwarded

London, June 14.

The indignation which has been aroused among the Members of Parliament by the cynical disclosure by certain foreign Governments of the extent of their intervention in the Spanish civil war—an intervention which they publicly disclaimed at the time of its occurrence—continues to be expressed in questions in the House of Commons. Mr. Neville Chamberlain the Prime Minister was asked today in connection with Herr Hitler's recent speech to the returning "volnteers" if the British Government contemplated making a protest against this misleading of non-intervention.

Mr. R. Butler, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, who replied, said the answer was in the negative since the German Government must be well aware of the view of the British Government.

He declined the request of another member to recite the numerous assurances implying non-intervention in the Spanish civil war given by the German and Italian governments subsequent to July, 1936, and he also declined, as serving no useful purpose, to raise afresh at the League of Nations the question of foreign intervention in Spain.—Wireless through Reuter.

German Troops Concentrated On Polish Frontier

Poland Worried by Disturbing Reports; Tension In Danzig Heightened; Memorandum Rejected

New York, June 15.

GERMANY is reported to have concentrated 250,000 troops along the Polish frontier in Northern Slovakia, according to information described as having reached the "New York Times" from a "private source abroad." The reported troop concentrations are stated to include five infantry, two tank and one heavy artillery divisions. At the same time, the "New York Times" publishes a dispatch from Prague under the headline :—"Czechs Fear Today will See Same Step to Slovak Seizure."—Reuter.

The presence in Prague of Herr Himmler, Chief of the German Secret Police, has tended to heighten a feeling of expectation there, according to the Prague correspondent of "The Times."

Recent events in Kladmo and Nachod, he continues, where German and Czech lives were lost, have made the people feel that some change must take place soon.

One section of Czech opinion, he declares, considers that a change in the Protectorate would be accompanied by German moves in Slovakia.

Germany, he says, with garrisons on Slovak soil, has been massing troops for many weeks in north-east Moravia, near the Slovak frontier. The seizure of Slovakia, he continues, could be carried out without any extensive troop movements from the Reich.

The correspondent records the following as signs that Germany is intending to make some move within the next few days:

1. All locomotives at Pardubice and Prague have been ordered to keep full steam up for the next two days.

2. Roads from Brno to Olmutz and Iglau are to be kept clear of civil traffic during the same days.—Reuter.

Poland Worried

Paris, June 15.

Poland informed France yesterday that she had received disturbing reports of German troop movements along the Polish-Slovak border and expressed her determination to fight with force in the event of German aggression against Poland.

The Polish note said all roads leading to the northwest through the Slovakia. River Valley were filled with long columns of German troops. Other German units were said to have been concentrated at Jablunkau and Ducla, passes in the Carpathian Mountains.—United Press.

Rumours Causing Concern

Paris, June 15.

Rumours of German troop movements in Slovakia were causing considerable worry in Warsaw, Paris and London, it was understood today.

If the rumours were authenticated it would mean that the Germans were within a striking distance of the great Polish Silesian industrial area in which the principal heavy armament industries are located. Hence, in the event of war, Germany would be able to decapitate Polish resistance by seizing and destroying, vital Polish assets, thus making Poland dependent on Britain, France and Russia for war supplies.

Likewise, such a movement of German troops in Slovakia would complete a three-sides front on Poland placing the Poles in a vulnerable strategic position.—United Press.

Memorandum Rejected

Warsaw, June 15.

The Government rejected the memorandum handed to the Premier, Gen. Felicjan Slawoj-Skladkowski, by Herr Erwin Hasbach, German minority Senator, yesterday charging anti-German activity, it was understood today.

The Government informed Senator Hasbach that any complaints by the German minority in Poland must be submitted to competent district Governors, it was learned.

The 70-page memorandum alleging anti-German outbreaks in Poland, however, served to put the minority's case on official record and emphasize to what extent Poland and Germany have been alienated since Poland cast her lot with Britain and France.—United Press.

Treatment of Tinkler by Japanese Doctor Related

turned round and saw a marine picking up Tinkler's gun while six or seven marines started to beat him with their rifles. From what I saw they were using the flat of their bayonets. I ran to his assistance, shouting to the Japanese to stop and by the time I had reached him he was in a semi-kneeling position.

Chadwick was also there at this time, and with the aid of one or two marines we lifted him to his feet. Commander Nojii then came up and struck him three or four times, although I did not see what he was using. I asked Commander Nojii to stop and he did so. The marines then pulled Tinkler in the direction of the mill and he fell on the ground and was dragged about twenty-five yards by his arms and legs."

Pain in Stomach

Mr. Sharples added that he asked Commander Nojii where Tinkler was being conveyed and was told that he would be taken to the Japanese military hospital. The Commander agreed that witness could accompany Tinkler to the hospital, and he allowed Stott to go as well. After Tinkler had been dragged for about twenty-five yards he got to his feet, but witness did not see if he was assisted or not.

Tinkler then walked to the outside gate, being assisted by witness on the right side and a Japanese on the left. There was blood on his clothes by his left back. Once outside they entered a motor car and as soon as they arrived at the hospital a Japanese surgeon began to examine Tinkler. After taking off all his clothes he began to stitch his wounds and while this was being done Tinkler complained of pains in his stomach. The time, witness said, would be about 9.30 a.m.

Not Deep

"The doctor said in English that his wounds were not deep," Mr. Sharples went on, "and later he would be all right. The largest wound he said was lengthways and did not touch his stomach. When his wound had been dressed I asked the doctor if I could take Tinkler back to the mill and he replied 'No, he must stay here for medical attention.' Tinkler was then taken to a room in the back and laid across two or three camp beds. They provided him with a pillow and a blanket and Tinkler asked for a drink of brandy."

Continuing, Mr. Sharples stated, "The doctor said that he did not want to give him brandy as he was afraid it would make him worse and he was given a drink of water instead. Tinkler and I were then left alone until about 12 o'clock and he again complained about pain in his stomach. I went to see the doctor but he had gone to tiffin.

The doctor came back at about 12.45 when I told him that Tinkler was complaining about his stomach. I asked for a morphia injection and the doctor said that he could not give one as he was afraid that his heart could not stand it. He then went to look at Tinkler and explained the reason why he could not give him morphia. Tinkler then asked for a sleeping injection and the doctor gave him this."

Revolver Snatched Away

Witness then told Tinkler that he was going to leave him to go to Shanghai to have him removed and he consented. He then asked the doctor if he could leave the place and received an answer in the affirmative when someone spoke to the doctor in Japanese and he then stated that witness could not go. At about 2.30 some officers came in with a Japanese in plain clothes and the latter informed witness that it was not necessary for him to stay.

He then left and went to the mill and from there to the Shanghai office, where he reported to the directors. Here he pointed out that although Tinkler's wound had been treated, he should be removed as he was complaining about pains in his stomach.

Questioned by the Coroner, Mr. Sharples stated that when he had run towards the group of Chinese at the mill he had had his revolver in his hand, but when he had realized what the position was he had put it in his pocket. There it had remained until the time Tinkler was disarmed. As he was attempting to stop the marines beating Tinkler a Japanese came and snatched it from his pocket, breaking the lanyard, which was hanging around his neck.

At this stage the Coroner adjourned the enquiry until 10 a.m. today.

Britain Considers Retaliation

Japanese Foreign Office sources said the situation at Tientsin would "only become worse" if Britain took retaliatory measures aganst Japan elsewhere in the world.

The Japanese warning was sounded following reports from London that the British Cabinet had requested the Board of Trade to investigate possible methods of retaliating against Japan.

Foreign Office circles here emphasized today that the action being taken by the Japanese Army in Tientsin was directed only against Britain. They said American and French consuls in Tientsin had been informed by the Japanese consul that the interests of their countries would be respected.

The statement was regarded in some foreign circles as an indication that Japan hopes to attack the treaty rights of third Power nations one by one in an effort to avert parallel British, French and American retaliation against Japan.

Meanwhile, the Japanese navy spokesman said the Japanese navy was not involved in the Tientsin crisis but was prepared to take any action necessary to support Japanese authorities on the spot.

The spokesman also reviewed the Kulangsu situation and said residents there had been inconvenienced because "inefficient conduct" by the Municipal Council had deadlocked negotiations on Japan's demands for control of the foreign area.

The spokesman also warned that foreigners in Chungking and Chengtu should demand the removal of Chinese defences from the vicinity of foreign property "in order to avoid friction."

He said recent Japanese raids on Chungking and Chengtu showed that Chinese defences, particularly anti-aircraft batteries, had been established as near as possible to foreign property.—United Press.

Ordered to Prison for Maintenance Arrears

Order of Court Must be Obeyed States Judge

"An order of the Court must be obeyed," stated Judge P. Grant Jones in H.M. Supreme Court yesterday when ordering Spencer S. Moosa to prison for non-payment of $361.25 due under a maintenance order in respect of his wife and two children. It was explained to Moosa that should the sum be paid into Court by him the order would not be put into effect.

Made on April 19 this year the order stipulated that Moosa should pay $65 a month to his wife, $156 a month for one child and $120 a month for a second child. This, stated Mr. K. E. Newman, for Mrs. Moosa, had not been paid.

In a statement in Court Moosa stated that the two children had been virtually maintained by petitioner's father for a year. Here Mr. Newman pointed out that petitioner had had to borrow from her father for heavy medical expenses in connection with the two children. In making the committal order the Judge stated that should the money be paid the order would not proceed. "Can I get a few things before I go to jail," stated Moosa in reply.

British Press Urge Strong Action

Paris Sees Connections With European Affairs In Tientsin Crisis

London, June 15.

Strong action in the Tientsin affair was urged by the British press today, although the "Financial News" struck a note of caution by outlining difficulties in the way of imposing economic sanctions against Japan.

The "Manchester Guardian" still held out hopes for a compromise, stating that the Japanese Government probably would not reject Britain's proposal for arbitration.

The Diplomatic Correspondent of the "Financial Times" took a stricter view of the situation, writing, "Economic reprisals by Britain may become necessary as a result of Japanese action establishing the blockade in Tientsin.

"The Board of Trade is examining the economic and trade position and, in the event that Japan persists in her attitude, it may become necessary to adopt two principal measures by way of retaliation.

"The first is economic reprisals on a wide scale. The second is denunciation of the Anglo-Japanese trade agreement and withdrawal of preferences on Japanese goods in British imperial markets.

"The British Government is maintaining contact with the United States and French Governments on this matter," the "Financial Times" concluded.

The "Daily Express" wrote, "Japan obviously hopes for a diplomatic victory to cover her military failure. For her war in China has so far brought her no profit and no honour.

"The present incident raises the whole question of our concessions in China."—Havas.

Connected with Europe

Paris, June 14.

A serious view of the Tientsin Anglo-Japanese dispute was taken by the French press today and most newspapers declared the whole problem was closely connected with the European situation.

Some asserted the Japanese blockade of the British Concession to be a portion of a general plan to seize all international settlements in China.

The gravity of this icident's repercussions on European politics was stressed by "Le Petit Journal," which alleged, "Japanese military prestige had been considerably diminished following recent Chinese successes and Japan is now seeking revenge on Great Britain."

This news organ declared that Japan's action would constitute an indirect victory for Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, whose general schemes aim to threaten vital British interests abroad to divert London's attention from Europe.

The Soviets, too, were threatened by Japan. "Le Petit Journal" continued.

"Britain and Russia are both threatened by Tokyo, but Herr Hitler does not falter in his policy. What takes place in any part of the Far East involves the most serious repercussions in old Europe," it wrote.

Care Needed

"Le Journal" was more optimistic. It stated the situation to be serious but not dramatically so, since "the gravity of any eventual international conflict induces all parties to deal carefully with incidents however serious they may be."

"But violent clashes may occur," it added, "when Britain and France will be compelled to resist further attacks on their rights.

"Japanese stubbornness in refusing a compromise justifies some anxiety owing to present circumstances. It is not by chance that the Tientsin incident took place at a moment when Japan was most anxious over the prospect of an Anglo-Franco-Russian alliance."

This newspaper concluded with the remark, "This is not the least disquieting aspect of the whole affair."

Meanwhile, "Le Matin" reported today that a joint Anglo-French protest would be lodged with the Tokyo Gaimusho over the "siege" of the British and French Concessions in Tientsin.—Havas.

Test of Strength

Berlin, June 14.

The Tientsin affair was a test of strength between Japan and Great Britain, most German newspapers wrote today.

"Der Angriff," the Propaganda Minister, Dr. Joseph Goebbels' organ, wrote, "Japan's enterprise in China of itself necessitates a fight against Britain and France who, for egotistical motives, ceaselessly erect new obstacles and difficulties in the way of Japan's advance."—Havas.

Threat to Treaty Rights

Manila, June 15.

British surrender to Japanese demands and blockade activities in Tientsin would mean the end of foreign treaty rights in China, the American owned "Manila Bulletin" said in an editorial today.

If the British capitulate, the editorial said, British treaty rights will be a thing of the past and the treaty rights of other Powers would "be worth exactly as much as the Japanese chose to make them worth."

"In other words," the paper said, "the Japanese demand in Tientsin is that, beginning with the British, the Powers must recognize Japan's 'New Order in East Asia!'"

Japan's rejection of the British mediation proposal in Tientsin is "easily understandable," the paper said, "because Japan's acceptance would have been tantamount to the withdrawal of the Japanese demand that Japanese orders be recognized as supreme to all other nations' treaty rights in China."

"A neutral chairman or member of the proposed mediation commission considering the Tientsin row could only attempt to act as an interpreter of legal rights," the paper said. "But interpretation of legal rights is useless unless rights are recognized as mutually binding and are wholeheartedly respected.

"A referee is useless in a game without rules."

The editorial said British commerce in Tientsin was virtually dead for two years and that the British would have been better off if they had withdrawn from Tientsin long ago.

"However, getting out hasn't been possible without admitting defeat and that would have implied the same thing that would be implied by surrender now."—United Press.

To a generation taught to believe that Dillinger and Al Capone typify the outlaw, the name of Jesse James comes as that of an almost legendary figure; Twentieth Century Fox and technicolour correct all that in the picture that opened yesterday at the Grand. In it, America's Public Enemy No. 1 of the '70's emerges as a real and wholly plausible person, moving ignobly but logically and directly in the direction whither circumstance and impulse send him. Embittered by the ruthless methods employed by the railway company in usurping their farm land, thereby causing the death of their mother, Jesse James (Mr. Tyrone Power) and his brother Frank (Mr. Henry Fonda) become outlaws, focussing most of their activities upon the railway company. In time, however, they branch out into robbing banks as well. A big reward is offered by the railway for Jesse's capture. Despite the risk, he visits Zerelda (Miss Nancy Kelly), with whom he is in love. There he meets Will Wright (Mr. Randolph Scott), a federal marshal, who, too, loves Zerelda; Wright knows who Jesse is but lets him go free. In an effort to help the young couple, Wright obtains a written promise from the railway president that, if Jesse will surrender, he will be given a six-month sentence and then released. Zerelda and Jesse marry, after which Jesse gives himself up. But it turns out that the president really intended to have Jesse hanged. The double cross disgusts Mr. Scott. Frank, in company with his bandits, carries out his threat to free Jesse. Jesse and Zerelda live in hiding. This makes her miserable. Mr. Scott and her uncle (Mr. Henry Hull) are with her when she gives birth to her son. She then goes back home with the latter and Jesse decides not to follow her. Instead, he continues his outlaw career. Five years later, he and his wife are reconciled, and plan to go to California, there to start life anew. On the day they are to leave, Jesse is killed by one of his own men for the reward.

The film has been made on the grand scale and with the most careful attention to detail. It lives up in every way to the great reputation that has preceded it.—B.S.I.

Given as a gala performance in honour of Miss Katherine Orlovskaya, who has delighted so many lovers of light opera in Shanghai with her superb artistry, Thursday night's performance of "Madamoiselle Nitouche" by the Russian Light Opera Co. at the Lyceum Theatre was an established success from the moment the first player entered the stage to the last moments when the whole cast assembled to receive rounds of thunderous applause from a highly appreciative audience. There is no doubt that Miss Orlovskaya gained the honours as far as the performers were concerned, but there was so little to choose between them all that to single out anyone for especial praise would constitute a grave injustice to the whole cast. Suffice it to say, however, that Mr. V. Valin, Mr. G. Koudinoff and Mr. L. Rosen were once again featured very much in the limelight, with Mr. Koudinoff stealing the hearts of most feminine members of the audience with his dashing portrayal of a handsome young officer. His songs, too, were as well-executed as ever, while Mr. Valin was in one of his funniest moods, ably assisted by Mr. Rosen. The ballet scenes under the direction of Mr. B. Seroff and his partner Miss Manjeley, were prettier then ever, the music of the orchestra was of a high standard, and the scenery left little to be desired. In fact the whole show was a splendid production which speaks well for the artistry of this very talented group of performers.—R.S.

Japanese Landing In Shantung

Naval Party Assist in Mopping-up Operations; Minor Chinese Successes

Japanese bluejackets were landed at Shihkiuso, strategically important port along the south-eastern coast of Shantung at dawn on Tuesday, a Japanese naval spokesman revealed yesterday.

The landing, effected under the cover of an aerial bombardment, was carried out in keeping with the progress of the mopping-up operations being conducted in that area by Japanese army forces.

Large quantities of arms and ammunition, the spokesman claimed, were seized at Shihkiuso by the Japanese landing party.

On Monday and Tuesday, the spokesman said, naval aircraft bombed and machine-gunned Chinese positions and troops near Jihchao and Shihkiuso in Shantung. Several villages used as bases for Chinese remnants in those districts were set on fire by the bombings, he stated.

Eight Chinese vessels, used to transport food and supplies along the Kan River in Kiangsi, ranging from 400 tons to 150 tons, were attacked on Wednesday by naval air units operating in that area, the spokesman added.

The vessels were sighted near Fengcheng, Tsingkiang, Sinkin, and Hsiaokan. Near Sinkin, Fengcheng and Sungshouchen, the Japanese aircraft were subjected to severe anti-aircraft fire, but were not damaged, according to the spokesman.

Chuanwan, north of Fengcheng, was also raided, as were Kian, also in Kiangsi, and Tzeki, north-west of Ningpo, in Chekiang, the spokesman deslared.

The aerodrome at Pucheng in northern Fukien and barracks in the town were also bombed on Wednesday, the spokesman stated.

Shansi Mountain Taken

Tokyo, June 15.

Two Japanese detachments mopping up in Shansi province occupied the highest peak in the Chungchiao Mountain range approximately 1,700 metres above sea level yesterday, according to a field dispatch reaching here today.

The Japanese were pursuing retreating Chinese, who abandoned 370 dead, the message said.

Early on Wednesday the Japanese broke through the Chinese positions at Tankiakou, about 10 kilometres southeast of Changtienchen, and Shangpao, about 14 kilometres southeast of Changtienchen.

Japanese booty included three howitzers, 170 rifles, three light machine guns, 13,000 rounds of ammunition and 45 hand grenades.—Domei.

Marlene Dietrich Halted By Federal Agents

Last-minute Confusion on Board ss. Normandie

New York, June 14.

The "all visitors off" gong was sounding today on the Normandie French super-liner, when suddenly Federal tax-collection agents boarded her and, without loss of time, landed passenger Marlene Dietrich's nine trunks, two valises and ten packages, —for non-payment of income tax.

Confusion ensued on the world's largest vessel as the glamorous film star sought to explain her innocency of the charge and, at the same time, prevailed on the captain of the ship to wait a minute for her.

Miss Dietrich, who only a few days ago became a naturalized American citizen, was accused of failing to pay taxes on money earned in 1937. The total sum owed by her is $284,000.

Will Shanghai Be Next

Tokyo, June 15.

The assertion is made here that the Japanese blockade of the British and French Concessions in Tientsin will be maintained until the foreign powers and the administrative authorities of the two foreign-controlled areas submit unconditionally to the demands of the Japanese authorities.

Baron Klichiro Hiranuma, the Premier, Mr. Hachiro Arita, the Foreign Minister, and General Itagaki, Minister of War, met yesterday to discuss the situation in Tientsin as well as the general problem of the International Settlements and Foreign Concessions in China.

Late today, General Itagaki submitted a full report to the Emperor on the measures taken by the Japanese authorities at Tientsin.

The "Yomiuri Shimbun" declares that sooner or later the Japanese Government will take steps at Shanghai similar to those taken at Tientsin, adding that the provocative attitude of Britain and France has rendered Japanese public opinion hostile to London and Paris.—Trans-Ocean.

Canadian to be Freed

Tientsin, June 15.

Mr. Eric Mayell, British newsreel man employed by the Fox-Movietone Corporation, who was taken into custody by Japanese military police yesterday while filming the "isolation" of the foreign concessions, will be released today, Japanese authorities indicated.

Japanese authorities denied that he had been injured. A story to this effect had been circulated by foreign correspondents.

At about noon yesterday Mr. Mayell went past a sentry line at the foot of the International Bridge and in defiance of orders of Japanese sentries attempted to take pictures in a prohibited zone.

He was taken into custody and turned over to the Japanese gendarmerie for questions. His camera was seized.—Domei.

Cameraman Not Released

Tientsin, June 15.

Despite an intimation by the Japanese authorities that they were releasing Mr. Eric Mayell, British cameraman who was arrested on the International Bridge for taking photographs, this afternoon, he had not returned to his residence by 8 p.m.

It now transpires that three consuls are interested in Mr. Mayell's release:—

The French Consul, because Mr. Mayell was arrested on the French side of the International Bridge;

The United States Consul, because his camera and equipment was the property of Twentieth Century Fox; and finally

The British Consul, as Mr. Mayell is a Canadian subject.—Reuter.

London, Paris Confer

Paris, June 15.

Informal exchanges of views between the British and French Governments over the Tientsin situation took place this morning.

It is pointed out here that France considers it essential that the closest contact should be maintained between Britain, France and the United States, as the three Powers most interested in the Concessions in China.

The best results, it is emphasized, can be obtained by parallel action.

At the same time, it is recognized that the situation in Tientsin is delicate, and the matter is being left largely in the hands of the authorities on the spot. The hope is expressed in French quarters that the matter will be satisfactorily settled locally.—Reuter.

HONGKONG FOOT

Do not take chances with Hongkong foot which may develop into a very dangerous disease. The first signs of this disease appear between the toes. The skin is moist and cracked with painful irritation and often an unpleasant odour.
The moment these signs appear bathe the feet in ¼% Lysol solution (1 teaspoon to 2 quarts of warm water) keep them immersed for fully 15 minutes. Do this at least once a day—more frequently if possible—for at least a week. It is most important that it should be done before retiring. Dry the feet thoroughly but do not rinse them.
As a preventative of Hongkong foot and all other diseases it is advisable to pour a small quantity of Lysol into the bath as this will kill all germs and prevent illness.
Beware of cheap imitations of Lysol.

IN connection with the report published in this journal on Wednesday regarding the shortage of small currency, reference was made to the sale of postage stamps. It should be pointed out that during the present emergency, local stamp-selling agencies continue to sell stamps at the official fixed price. Unauthorized shops selling stamps at a profit of one or two coppers per five cent stamp are illegal and whenever cases of this practice come to the notice of the Post Office authorities action will be taken against them.

THE day before the Exhibition of work of the young Indian painter Magesh Yawalkar was due to open, a lady stepped out of her car in New Bond Street and walked into the Cooling Art Galleries. A surprised official was about to tell her that it did not open until the following day when he recognized Queen Mary. Queen Mary told Mr. S. P. Cooling the director of the Galleries that she remembered the artist's work when he was quite young and had been struck by it then. Mr. Yawalkar who is now 24, has been painting since the age of 9.

The drawing was made in 1678, and it had taken 121 years for the sun to complete the process.

Sergeant Wimsett Concludes Lillie Inquest Evidence

Steering Wheel Grabbed by Japanese Sentry with Both Hands; Verdict to Be Given Today

WALKING with the aid of crutches following serious injuries sustained in an accident on Broadway near Minghong Road on April 24 when Mr. Bertram Lillie, principal of the Lester School and Henry Lester Institute, and a Japanese sailor sentry, were killed, Sergeant Ronald John Wimsett, of the Shanghai Municipal Police, yesterday gave his version of the accident before Mr. C. H. Haines, H. M. Coroner. His was the last testimony to be taken at the enquiry, which commenced on April 25, and a verdict will be delivered at 10 a.m. today. Substantiating the evidence of Mrs. Lillie, who was sitting beside Sergeant Wimsett in her husband's car when it was struck by a Japanese bus, he described the actions of the dead sentry in jumping on the running board and seizing the steering wheel with both hands.

Present at the enquiry were Mr. H. H. Thomas, Consul for Japanese Affairs, and Mr. R. F. C. Master, who represented the Henry Lester Trustees and Mrs. Lillie. First witness to give evidence was Sub-Inspector John James Gavan, who described the measurements from Broadway Bridge, west side, to the scene of the accident. The distance, he said, was 794 feet. The Japanese sentry's post was in the centre of the bridge.

Seated throughout his testimony, Sergeant Wimsett told the Coroner that on April 24 he was on duty at Garden Bridge. Between 8.30 and 8.40 p.m. he noticed a large dark saloon car crossing the bridge from north to south. Witness was standing on the footpath at the south end of the bridge and, as the car came opposite to him, it pulled over to where he was standing.

The occupants of the car—a foreign woman and man, whom he now knew as Mr. and Mrs. Lillie—alighted from the vehicle and Mrs. Lillie reported to him that just previously the car had been involved in an accident on the other side of the bridge. She stated that the car had collided with a barrier but did not know the exact locality. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lillie then went to the front of the car, where the former pointed out the damage which had been done to the vehicle.

Did Not Stop

Sergeant Wimsett continued that after Mr. Lillie had done this, he went on to say that, after colliding with the barrier, the car did not stop. Witness then suggested that they should return to the scene of the accident. "I had in my mind at the time," he said, "that someone might have been injured." It was his duty to go to the scene to get all information.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lillie had agreed to do this with no show of reluctance and Mrs. Lillie and witness then entered the rear of the car with Mr. Lillie occupying the driver's seat. The car was turned around and it proceeded back over Garden Bridge from south to north along Seward Road. It had almost reached the intersection of Seward and Boone Roads when Mrs. Lillie told her husband that this was not the place.

Witness then suggested turning to the right which would bring them to the intersection of Boone Road and Broadway. Here Mrs. Lillie recognized Broadway Bridge and indicated that this was the place. They turned left and pulled up at a barrier almost on the crown of the bridge.

Very Agitated

Mrs. Lillie and he alighted and he walked towards a Japanese sentry on the south side of the bridge. "I pointed to the damage on the car and to the barrier," Sergeant Wimsett continued, "and the sentry beckoned to another sentry standing on the opposite side of the bridge. This sentry came across and directed the car to be parked on Dixwell Road and this was done."

He added that the vehicle was parked facing Broadway and during the operation Mrs. Lillie exclaimed several times to the sentry "There are no lights on these barriers." He believed that the sentry did not understand what she was saying. "I looked at the barriers and I did not see any lights," he stated.

Mr. Lillie then alighted from the car and he appeared to be very agitated, Sergeant Wimsett continued. He appeared to be deeply concerned over the damage to his car, saying to the sentry "What are you going to do about the damage to my car?"

Broken English

Witness then went to a Japanese sentry and another Japanese sentry, in broken English and with a motion of his hand, indicated that he would telephone for, witness believed, an interpreter. Approaching Mr. Lillie witness informed him that they would have to wait until such time as an interpreter arrived. "Although Mr. Lillie appeared more normal at this time—he was not shouting but using a normal tone—he stated 'I'm not going to wait around here'," witness stated.

After being informed that if he did not wish to wait they had better go to Hongkew Police station, Mr. Lillie got back into the car and witness intimated to the Japanese that they were going to Hongkew Police station. The sentry then said something which he did not understand and made a motion with his hand. During all this Mrs. Lillie had already entered the car and had invited witness to get in also. He got in and sat beside her.

The Coroner—Was an interpreter produced by the Japanese?

Sergeant Wimsett—I did not see one but there may have been one. I saw no civilian there at all.

Mr. Lillie, he stated, drove the car towards the crown of the bridge very slowly and witness opened the door so that he could speak to the Japanese sentry on the crown of the bridge. When they arrived there he indicated that they were going to Hongkew Police station and he pointed in that direction.

At this time the car was going down the incline at a faster speed and he closed the door. The two Japanese sentries then jumped on the running board near the driver's door, one on the left side and one on the right side.

"The sentry on the right side of the car grabbed hold of the steering wheel with both hands," Sergeant Wimsett continued, "and at the same time I saw the sentry on the left bend his body through the window and reach towards the driving wheel. Mr. Lillie then took his left arm off the wheel and warded off the Japanese sentry's reach. This sentry then took up the position he was in before—an upright position on the running board.

Zig-Zagging

Mr. Lillie by this time had put the car in second gear and the vehicle was travelling in a zig-zag fashion down Broadway, going from one side of the road to the other. The sentry on the right was pulling the wheel first to the left and then to the right, and Mr. Lillie was working against him. Mrs. Lillie and myself shouted 'Stop', "Sergeant Wimsett went on,' but Mr. Lillie did not reply. We had almost reached the intersection of Tsingpoo Road and at that time the front left wheel and the rear left wheel mounted the left footpath.

"The car then swung back on to the roadway and the sudden jolting threw me forward. I struck my nose on the back of the seat where Mr. Lillie was sitting and I don't remember what happened until I awoke and found myself in hospital." In answer to Mr. Haines, he stated that that car at the time would be travelling at about 15 m.p.h., the road being "almost quite dry."

He did not see Mr. Lillie make any attempt to stop the car although he imagined there was plenty of opportunity for him to have done so. He could have put his foot on the brake. witness added. Mr. Lillie, he said, was absolutely sober at the time and he was not in an angry mood.

In adjourning the enquiry until today Mr. Haines stated "I have taken all the evidence we have been able to obtain in this enquiry and I do not propose to give my decision today. I will give this tomorrow before proceeding with the other (R. M. Tinkler) inquest."

Jewish Refugee Found Dead on Roadway

Concession Police Seeking Relatives

Mrs. Marie Ilme, 45 year-old German Jewish refugee was found lying dead in front of the Astrid Apartment Building at the corner of Route Cardinal Mercier and Rue Vallon yesterday morning. An emergency ambulance was summoned but Mrs. Ilme was certified dead on arrival at the Ste. Marie Hospital. The woman arrived in Shanghai a few months ago with but very little money and early yesterday morning she was seen entering the building, although she was not a resident there, asking the lift-boy to take her to the sixth floor. She then reportedly took off her hat and coat and was believed to have jumped out of a window from the stair-case.

The deceased left two letters in which she informed the recipients that she could live no longer under the economic strain now prevailing.

Detectives from the French police are now trying to ascertain whether the deceased has any relatives in Shanghai but up to a late hour last night, it was believed that she had come to Shanghai alone.

Companies Decline Cargos for Tientsin

Passengers Warned They May Not Be Able to Land

The various shipping companies operating regular services to Tientsin are continuing to dispatch their ships according to schedule but have refused all cargo intended for the Northern port in view of the Japanese blockade which went into effect on Wednesday morning. Passengers are being accepted however, although they are warned that they may not be able to land and that inconvenience may be caused to them in the event that they do.

The opinion was generally expressed in shipping circles yesterday, that all services would be maintained as it was presumed that the blockade as such would not be of a very long duration but that in view of the lack of landing and storage facilities, cargo is not being accepted for the time being. Cargos for Peitaiho and other ports are being accepted as usual and, up to a late hour last night, it was not known whether passengers arriving in Tientsin had been interfered with or had not been given permission to land.

Watchman Relieved Of Service Pistol

Thugs Escape Before Alarm is Raised

Two men, one armed with a pistol, suddenly halted a Chinese private watchman in Lane 1984, Bubbling Well Road shortly after 7.30 a.m. yesterday and relieved him of his .38 calibre Colt service pistol and five rounds of ammunition. The thugs were able to get away before the watchman raised an alarm.

It was believed that the men responsible for the crime were those who relieved a number of constables of the Shanghai Municipal Police of their pistols during the past few months and detectives from Bubbling Well station have commenced investigations.

Chinese Couple Swallows Large Dose of Poison

Chang Ts-zang is at present being treated at the Lester Hospital for Chinese, whilst his sweetheart died following a suicide pact which the couple had concluded in Room 412 at the Wei Tung Hotel, Hoopeh Road corner of Hankow Road, early yesterday morning. The couple decided to end it all by swallowing a large dose of poison and some hours later servants of the hotel were attracted by groans from the room. An emergency ambulance was summoned but the woman, whose name could not be ascertained, was pronounced dead on arrival. Chang's condition was believed to be serious.

Japanese Sponsor Strikes Here

Questions Asked in House Of Commons Over Inspired Trouble in British Mills

London, June 14.

The Conservative M.P., Mr. Adrian Charles Moreing today accused Japanese authorities of organizing special parties to "support and encourage industrial disputes" in British mills in the Shanghai area.

He charged the Japanese with "deliberately arranging" strikes in the International Settlement of Shanghai and in the Japanese-occupied suburban areas "for the purpose of placing Japanese military guards in possession of the British properties."

Speaking in the House of Commons before an interested assembly, he urged that steps be taken to prevent such occurrences in the future.

In reply, Mr. R. A. Butler, Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, declared that Mr. Moreing's account of the situation was "not quite accurate."

Representations, he added, had been made against strikes in British-owned factories near Shanghai, since these strikes were directed by the Japanese-sponsored Pootung administration with the participation of Japanese elements.

"The facts are," he continued, "that as a result of anti-British agitation, a number of strikes have recently occurred in British-owned factories situated in the neighbourhood of Shanghai but outside the International Settlement.

Japanese Involved

"This agitation appears to be directed by the Japanese-sponsored Chinese administration of Pootung and there is reason to believe that certain Japanese elements are actively connected with it.

"The circumstances in which Japanese marines were called to restore order in one of the factories in question was already explained in an answer given on Monday.

"Representations have been made both to the local Japanese authorities by His Majesty's Consul-General in Shanghai (Sir Herbert Phillips) and to the Japanese Government by His Majesty's Ambassador in Tokyo (Sir Robert Leslie Craigie) requesting that early steps should be taken to put a stop to the activities in question."

After Mr. Butler concluded his statement, Mr. Moreing made a further declaration, stating that it was his firm opinion that the strikes he had referred to were not "bona fide" strikes at all.

Mr. Ben Smith, Labour member for Rotherhithe, then asked, "When will the Government assert the prestige of Britain?"

He received no reply.—Havas.

Filipino Mohammedans To Return Home

Fled to Borneo Many Years Ago

Manila, June 14.

Repatriation of 5,000 Filipino Moros (Mohammedans) from Borneo, where they took refuge half a century ago to escape the Spanish regime in the Philippines, is sought by the National Assemblyman, Sr. Adji Gulami Rasul of Sulu.

The only Moro member of the Philippine National Assembly, Sr. Rasul said several thousand Moros were compelled to seek refuge in Borneo during the closing years of the Spanish regime and the early days of the American occupation because of unsettled conditions in Moroland.

"When the Spanish forces and subsequently the American troops launched campaigns against the Moros in Sulu, many Moros fled to Borneo and settled along the coast," Sr. Rasul said. "Although they have practically severed all connections with their motherland, the majority of them are now desirous of returning to the Philippines."

Sr. Rasul announced he planned to visit Borneo shortly to investigate conditions of the Moros living there. Upon his return, he said he would submit his findings to Commonwealth President Manuel L. Quezon along with his plan for repatriating them.—United Press.

Spanish Property Now Being Returned

Government Giving Back Requisitioned Articles

Burgos, June 15.

The Spanish Government issued a decree yesterday providing for the return to owners as soon as possible of all vehicles, farm wagons, taxis and limousines requisitioned during the Spanish civil war.

The decree provides for indemnities to owners of vehicles lost, ruined, smashed or broken as a result of the war. Free transportation by railway of all wrecked vehicles capable of being repaired also was provided.

The stipulation was made, however, that all vehicles brought into Spain from abroad and handed over to the Army voluntarily must have their customs dues paid before they are returned to their owners. This class comprises mainly luxurious limousines used by the general staffs.—United Press.

U.S. Labour Parleys Fail Again

Washington, June 15.

Peace negotiations between the American Federation of Labour and the Congress of Industrial Organizations have been abandoned, Mr. John Lewis, head of the C.I.O., announced last night.

The announcement marked another failure in attempts by President Roosevelt and the Secretary of Labour, Miss Frances Perkins, to arrange a truce between the two warring labour factions.—United Press.

Vitriolic Attack Made on Great Britain; Germany Wants England, France to Remain Democratic

Berlin, June 15.

A VITRIOLIC attack on Mr. Neville Chamberlain and Great Britain was made today by Herr Joseph Goebbels, Propaganda Minister, in the course of an address before 15,000 workers at the Sports Palace today. Herr Goebbels charged that the British Prime Minister had joined the Four-Power Munich conference last September "because we had him cornered. He came because he had to come . . . We are living from one moment to the next. A mistake may bring unpredictable consequences . . .

"England goes to church on Sunday while at the same time she bombs Arab villages. We have torn the mask from this immorality by saying we are not satisfied with things as they are: that is, the men who created the present situation can also change it . . .

"England and France always have been stronger than Germany economically and militarily. Why should we now supply them with clear and determined leadership on top of that? We are not crazy. We want them to remain Democratic."—United Press.

German Press Attacks Britain

Berlin, June 15.

A furious outburst against London reports that Chancellor Hitler is planning a new coup in Slovakia filled the Government-controlled German Press yesterday as well-informed military observers confirmed new troops movements in west Slovakia.

German troops already were reported to have begun the occupation of a military zone along the Moravian-Slovakian border in accordance with the original German-Slovakia treaty drafted when Slovakia became a German protectorate after the dismemberment of Czecho-slovakia.

German military leaders emphatically denied that a coup was contemplated in Slovakia, however.—United Press.

Foreign Press Condemned

Berlin, June 15.

Under a flare of headlines Berlin newspapers published yesterday evening an official denial of rumours circulated by the foreign press about German troop movements in the vicinity of the Polish and Slovak frontiers.

London and Paris are accused of deliberately spreading "scare news" in order to distract the public attention at home from the impediments which are continuing to arise in the thorny path leading to an understanding with Moscow.

The German press prints these false reports with the object of revealing their tendentious character.

It is alleged in London for instance that German troops are preparing to enter Slovakia in order to convert it into a protectorate. Paris on the other hand alleges that German military fortifications are being hastily constructed along the Polish frontier as a preliminary to a "brutal Italo-German offensive" against Poland.

Nobody, declares one German newspaper, can be possibly taken in by these false reports after all the "sensational disclosures" emanating from the same sources in the past.

"Der Angriff" ridicules a report that Germany and Hungary are seeking to divide up Slovakia between them. This lie has been concocted, the paper says, simply to help Britain make headway in its wooing of Moscow.—Trans-Ocean.

Rome-Berlin Alliance And Japan

Japanese Envoys Striving To Cement Relations

Rome, June 15.

New efforts to bring Japan into the framework of the Italo-German military alliance were seen here yesterday when Mr. Toshio Skiratori, Japanese Ambassador to Rome, left here for Berlin for important conferences with his Japanese colleagues.

He was accompanied by the Japanese military attaché in Rome. Japanese military attachés from other European capitals also will gather in Rome with the Japanese Ambassadors for the conference.

Diplomatic quarters said the Ambassadors and attachés would draft a new project designed to obtain Japan's adherence to the Italo-German alliance.

Some quarters believed the new draft plan would be the final effort of the present Japanese Ambassadors in Rome and Berlin to bring Japan into the Totalitarian military alliance. Unless the Japanese Government accepts the new draft, the two Ambassadors probably will resign, some quarters reported.—United Press.

Shanghai Stocks

Yesterday's Business

A wave of liquidation swept the market, engendered by uncertainty over the situation in Tientsin and in Kulangsu. Industrial shares especially were hammered down, the principal losses being made in the following:—

	Opening	Closing
Ewos	21	21
Wheelocks	38¼	37
Trams "B"	43½	42½
Kaiping	35¾	34
New Engine	8.55	8.35

There was some support at the close but it is apparent that buyers will stay out of the market so long as the situation remains tense.

The rubber section was rather less severely affected and little business was recorded. Buying rates were marked down sharply but sellers were not inclined to follow and in most shares there was a wide disparity in rates, preventing business from being done.

It is perhaps being realized that events in China have no permanent bearing on the real value of estates in Java and Malaya.

U.S. Does Big Machine Business

Manila, June 14.

A total of $13,750,000, equal to 37 per cent. of the production value of all Philippine mines in 1938, was spent in the United States for mine machinery and equipment, according to Sr. Quricio Abadilla, Director of the Bureau of Mines. The estimated production of all Philippine mines in 1938 was $37,000,000.—United Press.

Berlin Bourse

Berlin, June 14.

Today's bourse again opened rather weak as investors continued to maintain considerable reserve in buying. The further course of the session was likewise marked by a slight downward trend. Shortly before closing time the market however recovered to a certain extent.—Trans-Ocean.

London Stocks

Wednesday's Closing Quotations

London, June 15.

The Far Eastern situation hampered trading on the Stock Exchange today, causing a general decline of prices, though no real selling pressure was encountered.

Kaffirs displayed good resistance, but British gilt-edged securities moved fractionally easier and foreign bonds were weak.—Reuter.

New York Market Rallies

New York, June 14.

Prices on the New York Stock Exchange rallied late in the session today after falling off as much as three points in an early decline. Business news was generally favourable and news that few workers were absent from Flint, Mich., plants enabled automobiles and allied shares to lead the late rally.

Trading was light and there was a generally easier undertone. Foreign developments did not appear to have much influence on the market.

Wall Street hears that car loadings are around the second highest level of the year. There is a good amount of long pull buying entering the market. Cluett Peabody is in some demand. Celanese Corp. earnings for the second quarter will be slightly below the first quarter.

The market community expects further reaction before a broad recovery movement starts unless some outstandingly favourable piece of news breaks. The current tendency is to watch and wait.

There is some nervousness lest the rise should start to quickly that traders will miss the boat. However, this nervousness has not yet produced action although the market is considered highly sensitive to good news.

Favourable market factors today included:

1. Electricity production showed the widest gain of the year over any corresponding week of 1938.
2. Iron Age anticipates 60 per cent steel production.
3. Improved petroleum statistics.
4. The market's technical position is improved.

Among the unfavourable factors were these:

1. The Far Eastern situation.
2. Growing uneasiness over Central European developments.
3. Low commodity prices.
4. The labour situation in the automobile industry.—United Press.

London Silver Market

London, June 14.

Messrs. Samuel Montagu and Company, in their weekly bullion letter, write: Silver quotations in the London market eased early in the past week, with the cash position falling to the lowest level since November, 1938.

Indian bazaars resold but, at the lower levels, were more inclined to buy.

American operators purchased moderately for prompt delivery, but were less interested than last week, when, despite higher prices they were keen buyers.

No further news regarding the American legislative proposals have come to hand, but the uncertainty of the position may account for the reluctance of American buyers.—Reuter.

New York Stocks

Wednesday's Closing Quotations

New York, June 15.

Stock prices on Wall Street declined today, owing to the renewal of international uncertainties and the decline in London. However, the closing list showed fractional losses, with a few small gains here and there. During early trading the market was inclined to be narrow and irresolute, but near the close prices advanced and scattered gains were recorded, notably in aviations, utilities and pivotal issues. The volume of business passing amounted to 400,000 shares.—Reuter.

Dow-Jones Summary

By Courtesy of Swan, Culbertson & Fritz

Automobile and allied shares led the rally on the Stock Exchange today, after the list had recorded declines exceeding three points, but trading continued to be very light. Motors improved, following reports that only a few workers were absent from the Flint plants. American Telephone dropped sharply early in the session, as a result of the report that the Federal Communications Commission is seeking legislation to regulate the company, but later recovered when it was learned that the Bill would not be considered during the present session of Congress. Business news was generally favourable, whilst foreign complications had little influence on the market today.

U.S. Commodities

Wednesday's Closing Quotations

New York, June 15.

The cotton market opened steady on good cables and the continued firmness of spots, but the prevailing deadlock over the Agricultural Appropriations Bill was an unsettling factor. Later, the unfavourable weekly weather report brought in new buying and covering under which the market closed firm, with gains of 2 to 7 points being recorded.

The market for raw rubber futures was dull. The consumption figure for May was slightly disappointing and some liquidation was seen. At the close, declines of 10 to 12 points were registered.

Unfavourable weather and crop reports bolstered sentiment on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat futures opened higher, and later further advanced on the receipt of unfavourable crop reports, combined with higher Liverpool and Winnipeg advices. At the final bell, prices ruled from ½ cent up to unchanged, compared with the previous close.

Appeal for Improved World Trade Relations

Discriminatory Arrangements Condemned by American Secretary of State; Serious Political Effects

Washington, June 14.

AN urgent appeal for improved world trade conditions as a pathway to peace was voiced here yesterday by the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, as the Government celebrated the fifth anniversary of the Administration's reciprocal trade agreement system.

"Five years ago today the Trade Agreements Act was approved by the President and became a law," Mr. Hull said. "By it the Government of the United States inaugurated its programme of promoting our foreign commerce through reciprocal trade agreements whose advantages should be open to all who wished to adopt a liberal trade policy.

"The American trade programme is not only based on principles which time and experience have proven to be economically sound, but also essentially sound in maintaining those international relations which make for a peaceful world. Every departure from the policy represented by this programme has led to the stilling of healthy trade and commerce and to the undermining of social stability.

"Under a regime of law and orderly adjustment and development, it is not possible to stifle normal economic processes without diminishing human freedom and national security and independence. Discriminatory arrangements not only necessitate an increasing regimentation of economic life but an increasing regimentation of human beings and their ultimate loss of political freedom. Small nations which enter into such arrangements with a large nation become increasingly dependent upon the large nation for economic existence and inevitably become political vassals of the large nation.

Danger of Collapse

Likewise, if two larger nations enter into a discriminatory arrangement between themselves with an agreement to divide their spheres of influence, other nations inevitably will take defensive economic measures, and, instead of establishing peace and economic rehabilitation and progress, the result is bound to be a general collapse.

"The trade programme is based fundamentally on the truth that if individual ability and skill can be released generally throughout the world, and if men everywhere can more freely seek and find opportunity to make an exchange of their mutual advantages, their products and services in continuing vistas of prosperity is possible. Governmental action can open opportunities and remove artificial hindrances. When this is done the vision and energy of men can safely be relied on to take advantage of these opportunities. This earth has ample resources for its inhabitants if they are enabled to work freely; but these are of little use if the reasonable flow of economic life is obstructed.

Those who have joined with us to keep open the main highways of peace have benefited materially. Great nations are more prosperous; small nations are more safe, more free; since they do not have to submit to economic and ultimately political domination in order to live. The contribution already made is one of which this country may be proud. There will never be assured peace, confidence, and progress until the peoples of all the leading nations fully realize that economic barriers lie at the root of the world's poor ills.

"Our hope and our standard invitation is that in the coming years the programme may be joined by all. By its very essence it is open equally and impartially to each and every nation without exception."—United Press.

China Will Fight To the End

Hostilities Here are War For Justice and Liberty, Geneva Conference Told

Geneva, June 14.

"The only alternative for China today is capitulation or battle. We Chinese have chosen what duty dictates to us: we fight to the end," Mr. Li Ping-Heng, Chinese delegate, declared in a stirring address before the International Labour Conference this afternoon.

He reviewed international events of the past year and asserted, "A nation can lose its independence overnight.

"Experiences of the past few years have made the world understand that, however large they may be, concessions to aggressors cannot ensure peace."

Mr. Li proceeded to denounce "the illusion" that war may be localized and collective security renounced with impunity. He declared, "China is now undergoing the sufferings of a modern war.

"China is fighting for the existence and liberty, and she is also fighting for peace, justice and international law, to which all civilized nations should devote their energy."

He emphasized that throughout the 23-months-old conflict, China had not stopped on her road of social progress, economic development and reconstruction work.

He presented impressive figures on the gigantic tasks accomplished and undertaken in the fields of economics and transport and communication.

Countries supplying Japan with war materials, the Chinese delegate continued, were only "indulging in action detrimental to their own interests."

He also pointed out that since 1937, Japan had increased her exports to China, whereas Chinese imports from the United States, Germany, Britain and the Netherlands Indies had decreased.

The United States had lost its place as the chief country of exports to China and Japan had assumed this position since she had increased her exports from 15,73 per cent. of the total in 1937 to 23.49 per cent. in 1938.

Earlier in his address opening the general discussion, Mr. Li Ping-heng voiced his support of President Roosevelt's suggestion that an economic conference be held, provided mutual confidence was restored.

Before the Chinese delegate took the floor, Mr. Harriman, delegate of American employers, made a brief speech.

He suggested that raw materials owned by some "have" states should be placed at the disposal of the "have nots" in order to remedy the present unstable world situation.

Exchanges in raw materials should be taken to stabilize exchange, lower tariff barriers and convoke a world conference to conclude a new international treat of peace and goodwill, he said in conclusion.

At the close of today's session, the Conference passed by a vote of 90 to two a motion postponing discussions of a project to decrease working hours.—Havas.

Former Lover Sends Typhoid Germs

Abused Affection Brings Desire for Revenge

Kobe, June 15.

A woman physician seeking revenge against a former lover sent him a box of attractive cakes which she had filled with typhoid germs.

Dr. Kikuko Hirose, 38, confessed to police that she was responsible for the effort to murder Dr. Mikio Sato, 37, assistant head physician of the Maiko hospital at Tarumi.

Dr. Sato's brother died after eating the cake, Dr. Sato and a sister became ill, and nine primary school teachers who were guests at a party where the cakes were served also became infected.

Miss Hirose told police a story of a love affair that went back 15 years to the time she was working in the Kobe citizens' Hospital after graduating with honours from Tokyo Women's Medical College.

Dr. Sato then was a poor medical student at Kyoto Imperial University. He visited the Kobe hospital to inspect its equipment and was attracted by Miss Hirose. He began to make love to her and soon afterward, according to Miss Hirose's story, persuaded her to live with him.

Dr. Sato was having difficulties financing his medical studies so Miss Hirose, then a qualified physician, went into practice to earn money for his education. She said that for six years she pinched and scraped, sending him from Yen 100 to Yen 300 each month of that time.

After Dr. Sato finished his medical course and started on a successful career, Miss Hirose said, he lost interest in her. In 1937 he finally told her he was through with her. Thinking he would change his mind, Miss Hirose waited for some show of returning effection. There was none. Patience waned and hatred grew until she finally determined upon the murder attempt.—United Press.

Spanish-German Trade

Burgos, June 15.

Spain's post-war trade relations with Germany were discussed here yesterday when the Spanish Foreign Minister, Mr. Francisco Jordana, received the German Ambassador. They were said to have worked out plans for German and Spanish trade commissions to meet jointly in Berlin and Burgos.—United Press.

Former Kauding P.C. Shot by Loafer

No Political Reason for Attempted Murder

Avenging himself for having been arrested by him some time prior to the commencement of hostilities, a loafer calmly walked into a room at the Zang Zung lodging house, Sungkaloong off Hoopeh Road, shortly before midnight on Wednesday and fired a number of shots at Zau Eshing, a former member of the Kauding police.

Zau, who was injured by three bullets, sagged to the ground and was unable to raise the alarm until a few seconds later, when his assailant had decamped however.

The victim was rushed to the police hospital where his condition was declared to be serious although it was expected that his life would be saved.

Beyond saying that the attempted murder had no political back-ground, Louza station detectives who are investigating the case, made no statement, although it was learned from other sources that a discussion between the two had preceded the shooting. It was also understood that Zau, since he is Shanghai, has borrowed money from the loafer and that the argument ensued when he refused to pay it back. The loafer's arrest was expected to be made within the next few days.

Increase in German Raw Iron Production

Berlin, June 14.

The progressive increase of German raw iron production which has been recorded during the past few years continued also during the past month.

According to statistics published by the iron group of the German mining industry, the raw iron production in Greater Germany, not including Bohemia and Moravia, rose to 1,676,725 tons in May from 1,608,262 tons in April, 1939. The daily average output of 53,609 tons in April has therefore been increased to 54,088 tons in May.

The monthly average at the end of 1938 amounted to only 1,400,000 tons.—Trans-Ocean.

Second Victim of French Town Shooting Dies

Police Follow Theory Of Presonal Revenge

Li Tien-seu, who was wounded at his home at 3, Dah Seng Li, Route Dollfus on Wednesday morning, died at the St. Marie Hospital yesterday as a result of shot wounds received the previous day.

As will be recalled, two men entered the Li home and fired a large number of shots killing Li's wife outright while he was seriously injured.

Concession detectives who have been investigating the case attach no political importance to the double murder and believed that it was a matter of personal revenge. The cartridge cases found on the scene have been submitted to ballistic experts both of the French and Settlement police but, as far as could be learned last night, they have not been used in any previous crimes.

Spain's Home Minister Returns from Rome

Barcelona, June 14.

Senor Serrano Suner, Spanish Home Minister, returned by air today from his visit to Italy and received a triumphal welcome from all ships in the harbour, who blew their sirens in his honour. He came back on a seaplane. Shortly after landing, he attended a military parade and a review of Phalangists, standing on a balcony of the Pahalangist headquarters building.—Havas.

French Commander for British-French Army?

Prime Minister Gives Evasive Reply

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, June 14.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, was asked in the House of Commons today by Mr. Arthur Henderson, Labour Member for the Kingswinford Division of Staffordshire, whether it was the policy of the Government to consent to the appointment of a French general as the supreme commander of British and French armed forces in the event of war.

In reply, Mr. Chamberlain said that the question of co-ordination in the command in various theatres in which His Majesty's forces might be called upon to co-operate with the French in the event of war necessarily formed a part of the conversations between representatives of the two countries.

It would not be, however, in the interest of the public to give information as to the particular aspects of these conversations.—Reuter.

Joint Women's Organization Annual Meeting

Year's Report Reveals Useful Record of Work In Tackling Shanghai's Civic Problems

THE annual meeting of the Joint Committee of Shanghai Women's Organizations took place on Wednesday in the ladies lounge of the Foreign Y.M.C.A., Bubbling Well Road. Mrs. Ivor Hunter the retiring Chairman, gave a report covering the period July 1938 to June 1939 to a very representative gathering. She said:—We are met together on this occasion to review our work for the past year and to elect new officers for the coming year. The complex situation prevailing in China as a whole and in Shanghai in particular has provided us with no end of vital and urgent situations to be considered and acted upon wherever possible. Through our programmes we have tried to achieve an intelligent understanding of the situation and through our very active and efficient Civic Affairs Department we have tried to be of actual service.

At our first meeting in September which was in the nature of a get-to-gether, we inspected the new Y.W.C.A. residence for Business Girls, a project in which we are interested, and listened to Mrs. John Barr tell of her contacts with International Women's Organizations abroad.

In October we got down to serious consideration of Shanghai's problems in a presentation by Miss Eleanor Hinder of the S.M.C. Industrial Department, of the developments of industry in the Settlement since the cessation of the hostilities last year. After hearing Miss Hinder, we felt more in the spirit to put up with various inconveniences brought about by the establishment of factories in the Western residential areas.

November's programme took us afield again when Miss Ruth Woodsmall, General Secretary of the World's Committee of the Y.W.C.A., brought us an account of women's activities throughout the world and particularly in countries where women's freedom is comparatively recent.

December brought forth a very interesting programme when Mr. D. E. Harbottle, of the S.M.C. Public Works Department, gave an informative talk on city cleansing. In January we turned our programme over to the Civic Affairs Department for a discussion on: Follow up of city cleansing and the beggar question.

In regard to the follow up, Mrs. Barr suggested the plan whereby Joint Committee members would report nuisances in their residential district to district supervisors. It was agreed to try the experiment for a month and report to the Joint Committee at the next meeting. Mrs. Barr also suggested a cleanliness week in which anti-spitting would be stressed. Mrs. Pettit gave a brief review of the work that had been done for beggars in the Settlement by the W.C.T.U., and Brigadier Morris outlined the work being done for the beggars at the present time by the Salvation Army, emphasizing the Amoy Road and Route de Sieyes experiments in trying to teach beggars a legitimate trade. This meeting proved to be one of the most vital and interesting of the year.

In February Mrs. Colter gave a short report on what has been done by the Committee of Associated Foreign Charities in its effort to secure funds for organizations working for foreign relief. In March Mrs. Donald Roberts, of St. John's University, took us on a delightful and educative tour of West China which is becoming of such importance in China's recent industrial development outside the war areas. The April programme brought us up to date on the Status of Women in China. Miss A. Viola Smith who with seven Chinese women lawyers made the study at the request of Geneva, outlined for us the most important points in the study. As the May meeting followed the Club Institute, there was no speaker but a report from the Civic Affairs committee was given and business arising from the report was discussed.

The Club Institute

The Club Institute held in May is still fresh in your minds. We departed from precedence by holding the Institute at the French Club. Our subject this year, "Shanghai the City of Refuge", was presented from three angles, that of the Russian, the Chinese and the European. The speakers were informative and yet sympathetic so that at the end of the Institute we had a clear picture of the Refugee situation as it stands today and what measures are being taken to ameliorate it. Several suggestions came out of the meeting and were turned over to the Civic Affairs Committee for consideration at the June meeting.

Civic Affairs Committee

Under the energetic and capable leadership of Mrs. John Barr, the Civic Affairs Committee has been exceedingly active this year. The Committee has met once a month following a Chinese tiffin, but much of the work has been done between the meetings and represents hours of thought and time given generously by Mrs. Barr and her Committee made up of the following people: Mrs. Barr, Chairman, Mrs. E. Edwards, Mrs. Carleton Lacy, Mrs. H. J. Van Hengel, Miss T. Y. Zia, Mrs. Peter Wong, Miss Chi Chih-ling, Mrs. J. S. Whitney, Mme. P. Permet, Miss A. Viola Smith, Mrs. John Ely, Mrs. E. Colter, Mrs. I. E. G. Hunter, ex-officio.

The activities of the Committee during the past year have included: Cleaner City efforts which included the Anti-spitting campaign (March 26 to April 2) which was the greatest single piece of work of the year. Several thousand posters were used in the Settlement and Concession, slides in five theatres, leaflets were distributed, 20,000 pins were distributed in schools which co-operated, story-tellers were used, health talks given in refugee Camps and talks given over the radio besides articles which appeared in the press. There were contributions toward the expense of posters and many expressions of interest on the part of the public. There was excellent co-operation among the associated groups who worked out the plans. The Civic Affairs Committee recommends that some similar health effort be made again next year: The beggar question: The needs of children in the City: Employment conditions of foreign girls: Recreation project for groups of European refugees: Summer camp for European refugee children.

The Committee has communicated with the authorities on the following subjects:—Regulations and charges for ambulance services in cases of accident; Opposing incretase in rickshaw rental: Decreasing number of beggars at bus stops: Occupied premises on Nanking Road. Other subjects discussed have been: Free hospital bed for children and Nurses' training.

Other subjects discussed have been: Free hospital beds for children and Nurses' training.

Fresh Air Fund

The Committee of the Fresh Air Fund under the Chairmanship of Mrs. A. Grossman voted to send twelve children every two weeks to the King's Daughters Convalescent Home on Hungjao Road during July and August, the fee per child to be $35 a month. Swimming tickets for twenty boys and twenty girls for the summer have been purchased from the Y.M.C.A., and $100 has been donated to the camp for Russian children to be held at Tsingtao.

Vocational Guidance Committee

Under the Chairmanship of Mrs. A. W. Sherriff, the work of the Vocational Guidance Committee has this year been centred on the Mental Hygiene Training Course. Several of those taking the course have, in addition, gone to Shanghai University for further study with Dr. Westbrook with the idea of becoming vocational advisers. The work has been suspended for the summer and will be resumed when Dr. Halpern returns from Europe in the autumn. A Children's Nurses' Course was contemplated, but due to lack of interest was not organized.

This brings me to the conclusion of my report and to the end of my Chairmanship of the Joint Committee, an experience which has been most interesting and educative, I shall never forget the inspiring meetings and the splendid backing you have given me. To the Officers especially, I am most grateful. Mrs. Van Hengel as Vice-Chairman and Program Chairman has as always been a great source of strength and ideas. From her long experience with the Joint Committee she is as good as a handbook of rules. She has given us varied and worthwhile programs, and although I am sorry she is not here today to receive our appreciation, I think you will all agree she has well earned her holiday, Mrs. S. Y. Chen has found us delightful homes for our monthly meetings and has agreed to carry on in this capacity for another year.

In Mrs. E. Edwards as Treasurer we have uncovered an unusual accounting ability and she too has been persuaded to share this ability with us another year, of Mrs. Barr's splendid work I have already spoken, but too much appreciation cannot be given her for the many hours of time and effort she has given to the Joint Committee. She has set a very high standard as Civic Affairs Chairman. Mrs. Leitao is the person who makes the "wheels go round" behind the scenes. Ever efficient and always cheerful, she sends out notices, writes letters, and makes innumerable telephone calls. Mrs. Colter has had that difficult and very important job of taking minutes and keeping track of the additions and subtractions to the Joint Committee in the form of delegates. She too brings long experience to her task and she will be missed on the new Executive Board. Mrs. Giles has capably and wisely handled the publicity and Madame Muto-Nardone has secured a fine set of officers for next year. To all of these and to every one else who has helped to make this year so successful, may I say, thank you. It has been a privilege to work with you all and I hope you have enjoyed the experience as much as I have. Thanks are due also to the Y.W.C.A. for the use of their clubrooms again as headquarters.

It is good in retrospect to feel that so many women of different nationalities can work together in pleasant harmony on a wide variety of civic subjects and can be of distinct value as a unit in the Community.

And so it is with pleasure and regret that I turn over the Chairmanship of the Joint Committee of Shanghai Women's Organizations to Mrs. N. P. Petersen and I ask you to give her the earnest and loyal support you have given me.

The following is the new Committee for 1939/1940.

Estimates for British Civilian Defence

Enormous Numbers of Gas Masks Specified

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, June 14.

The House of Commons today read for the third time, without division, the Civil Defence Bill, the main object of which is to secure a more rapid expansion of civil defence measures.

It then discussed the estimate of £42,205,907, of which £37,000,000 will be provided from the defence loan.

Sir John Anderson, Minister of Civilian Defence, said that he hoped, by the end of the financial year, to have delivered 2,500,000 shelters. Hitherto, 650,000 had been delivered.

The estimate also included sums for the purchase, inter alia, of 15,000,000 gas masks, 1,300,000 protective devices for babies and 1,250,000 gas masks for small children.

The estimates were agreed upon.—Reuter.

May Health Report Shows Decline

Alarming Death Rate Among Children Noted By French Authorities

With meterological conditions favouring the outbreak of disease, a slight increase in sickness statistics is revealed for the month of May, according to the report of the French Concession Commissioner of Public Health.

Morbidity and general mortality remained at a higher level than for the corresponding month of 1938. The death rate for children was alarming: 12 children for every adult were found among the corpses abandoned on the streets.

Contagious Diseases

During the month, contagious diseases never attained epidemic proportions, although there was a slight increase in comparison with the previous month, without however, any change in the death rate. Typhoid and paratyphoid notifications were the most important and on the increase. More than double among the Chinese, while a slight decrease was noted among the foreigners, but among the latter, two deaths were recorded out of three new cases as against 27 deaths among the Chinese out of 79 cases.

Diphtheria continued its downward trend among the foreigners but remained steady among the Chinese. Relapsing fever increased notably amongst the Chinese population. A few sporadic cases of typhus appeared but there was nothing of importance as compared to last year's corresponding period. Tuberculosis increased slightly whilst smallpox has practically disappeared.

Prophylactic Measures

The anti-cholera inoculation campaign which began on April 1 continued with vigour during May. An extensive campaign to immunize the major portion of the population was planned before a possible outbreak of cholera. Certain difficulties have somehow slackened a bit this ambitious programme. However, after two months all congested places of importance in the Concession have been thoroughly dealt with. Different administrations, schools (more than 80,000 pupils and students), factories, refugee camps. Residents were concurrently inoculated district by district. During the month of May, 344,750 inoculations were given, immunizing 248,789 persons.

Since the beginning of the campaign a total of 614,202 inoculations were given, immunizing 481,459 persons, which means that in two months, the equivalent of the normal population of the Concession have been immunized.

It was not possible to proceed with anti-typhoid inoculations. Only 100 injections were given during the month. Against smallpox, however, 10,000 vaccinations were done.

In addition to these prophylactic measures, the sale of drinks of doubtful quality were forbidden on the streets. The chlorinatin of native wells was maintained during the month. The control of milk has also been rigourously applied.

During the month, 1,555 exposed unclaimed corpses were cremated.

Reich Expects Record Harvest

Berlin, June 15.

The forthcoming harvest of the German Reich promises to exceed by far that of last year which was itself an absolute all-time record.

According to a statement issued by the Reich Statistical Office, the state of grain fields at the beginning of June justifies such hopes. Winter rye in general shows a very good development. Winter wheat has undergone a further improvement in the past month.

Summer grain is decidedly good, according to reports of agricultural stations throughout the Reich. Although in part sowing was somewhat delayed, the fields of summer grain are better now than at the same time last year. Root crops are much more promising now than last year despite the cool weather in April and May.

Fodder plants with the exception of clover are better on the average than last year. Winter barley alone is behind that of last year in consequence of the damage done by bad weather.—Trans-Ocean.

Council Increase Sugar Quota

London, June 15.

The International Sugar Council decided unanimously at its session yesterday to increase—in view of the increased consumption in the current year—the quota of the British Dominions and Colonies by 153,265 tons.

The sugar quotas for the next year have not yet been fixed, but according to expert quarters they are likely to be considerably lower than those of the last two years because the demand of the free market is expected to be small.

Of this year's increase in quotas the South African Union is to be allotted 14,570 tons, Australia 28,330 tons and the British Colonies 110,365 tons. Haiti is to have an increase of 7,000 cubic tons.—Trans-Ocean.

Tin Quota Fixed At 45 Per Cent

London, June 14.

The International Tin Committee has fixed the quota for the third quarter at 45 per cent. It is understood that no change whatever was made in the buffer pool arrangements at today's meeting of the Committee, and that the various barter proposals were not brought officially before the Committee.

The next meeting of the Committee will take place at Brussels on September 21.—Reuter.

Spain to Increase Cork Production

Burgos, June 15.

The Spanish Government issued a decree yesterday establishing a special cork commission to study ways and means for increasing cork production, one of Spain's major industries.

The commission is composed of members named by the ministries of Agriculture and Commerce and will be empowered to regulate cork prices.—United Press.

"Deficiency of information in Japanese English-language newspapers is completed very successfully by an English newspaper in Kobe The Japan Chronicle . . on its pages can often be found criticisms of the political and economic actions of the Japanese Government and various other information which gives the opportunity to observe and to analyse the Japanese economic situation. In addition to the usual material obtainable from all the Japanese English-language newspapers. The Japan Chronicle gives a very detailed and comprehensive review of the foreign trade of Japan. It regularly prints statistics pertaining to Japanese exports and the state of the home market."—Extracts from U.S.S.R. Chamber of Commerce Journal.
